Philadelphia Car Lines Increase Earnings on No Fare Advance Policy

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.

THE Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., which definitely aligned itself against the increase fare propaganda of other systems throughout the country and which has taken as its operating principle, "Give the people such service they'll like to ride," shows an increase of $310,834 in net income in its report for 1919.

Gross income last year was $36,039,516, an increase of $4,335,092 over 1918. Notwithstanding larger costs of operation, the net income was $11,645,690, as compared with $11,334,856. The surplus above all charges, including Federal taxes, was $1,715,876, or $2.86 per $50 share of the $29,991,000 of stock outstanding. In 1918 the earnings were $2.55 per share.

COURT DECIDES HARRY REMMERS WAS ADOPTED

Holds He Is Entitled to Child's Share in Estate of Contractor, Inventoried at $260,000.

Harry J. Remmers, 47 years old, of 5251 Cabanne avenue, a building contractor, was declared, in a decision rendered today by Circuit Judge Davis, to be the adopted son of the late Fred J. Remmers, president of the Remmers Construction Co., and to be entitled to a child's share in Remmers' estate, inventoried at $260,000. The other heirs are three sons, a daughter and the widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Remmers of 3658 Cook avenue, who was the second wife of F. J. Remmers.

Harry Remmers was not named in the will, which designated the widow and four children as the heirs. In the hearing it developed that Remmers had conveyed certain property to his wife. Frank A. Thompson, attorney for Harry Remmers, said today that he would institute proceedings to have the conveyances set aside.

The Court declared that the evidence showed that F. J. Remmers and his first wife, Mary Remmers, entered into a contract to adopt Fred Remmers, the wife's nephew, following the death of his mother, Frances Stratman, in 1879. There was no deed of adoption, but the Court held this to be for the reason that F. J. Remmers believed it was unnecessary, and that it would merely create notoriety.

"The plaintiff did make his home with F. J. Remmers and his wife," the Court continued, "and he grew up as their son, and was so treated in the household and held out to the public.

"During the lifetime of F. J. Remmers, Harry conducted himself as a dutiful son. During his minority, F. J. Remmers and wife had the benefit of his services, and these services, both during and after his minority, helped in the accumulation of F. J. Remmers' fortune."

The Judge further cited the testimony that, at the time of the agreement with the Remmerses, an uncle, Peter Stratman, and his wife, were ready and willing to adopt the boy.

PRINCESS RADZIWILL'S SISTER GETS $500 LIBEL VERDICT

Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston Also Is Apologized to by Owners of London Graphic.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.—Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston, Mass., sister of Princess Radziwill, was awarded a verdict of $500 and costs against the Daily Graphic in court here yesterday as damages for the publication of a libellous article by the newspaper on Jan. 1. It appeared during the trial of the case in the Lord Chief Justice's Court that the article complained of had asserted Miss Deacon was "banished from Germany, where her name was frequently coupled with that of the Crown Prince."

The owners of the Daily Graphic have apologized to Miss Deacon and made a formal statement that there was absolutely no foundation for the article. Miss Deacon's counsel declared the only time she ever met the German Crown Prince was while she was staying at Blenheim with the Duchess of Marlborough.

In Northwestern Colorado the dust storm hid the sun for hours and the tracks of the Colorado and Southern Railroad were covered so deeply with sand at Wellington, Colo., that trains were detoured over the Union Pacific. The Denver and Salt Lake road was forced to suspend operations in the mountainous district because of a 100-mile gale which swept the mountain pass at Tabernash.

CEMENT WORKERS RECEIVE INCREASE TO $1.25 AN HOUR

New Scale for Union Finishers and Frame Setters Is Ratified and Will Be Effective April 1.

FOURTH BUILDING CRAFT TO BE ADVANCED

Foremen Under New Contract to Receive $1.37½—Double Pay for Overtime Work After First Hour.

A new scale of wages, granting an increase of 35 cents an hour for all union cement finishers, and an increase of 37½ cents an hour for cement finishers' foremen, was agreed upon yesterday afternoon by representatives of the union and the Cement Contractors' Association, and will become effective April 1. The scale affects about 250 members of the craft and will remain in force for a year.

Under the new scale cement finishers and cement frame setters will receive $1.25 an hour, instead of 90 cents, the wage paid under the 1919 contract. Foremen, who formerly received $1 an hour, will get $1.37½ an hour.

It also was agreed that the men are to receive time and a half for the first hour overtime, and double time for all extra work after the first hour. The men work an average of seven months a year. The new scale was ratified at a meeting of the Cement Finishers' Union last night.

Fourth Craft to Get Increase.

This is the fourth craft, affiliated with the Building Trades Council, to sign up new contracts providing increased wages in the last few days. The bricklayers, beginning May 1, will receive $1.25 an hour, instead of $1 an hour, the amount paid in 1919. They work an average of nine months a year.

The painters and decorators began work last Monday under a new scale providing $1 an hour for ordinary painters, an increase of 25 cents over the former scale, and $1.25 an hour for sign painters, who formerly received $1 an hour. Their average length of employment is seven months a year.

The electrical workers signed contracts, effective July 15, under which they will receive an increase of 25 cents an hour. The new scale provides $1.25 an hour for workers and $1.37½ an hour for foremen. They work about 10 months a year.

Other Contracts Expire.

Contracts of six other building crafts expire between now and April 1, and negotiations are pending for new contracts calling for increases in wages of from 5 cents to 15 cents an hour. The craftsmen include steam fitters, plumbers' laborers, granite cutters, gas fitters, construction firemen and steam shovel and crane engineers.

Contracts expiring in May are those of the bridge and structural and ornamental iron workers, elevator constructors, iron shopmen, lathers, heavy haulers, stone cutters and stone derrick men. They are asking for increases of from 8¾ cents to 31 cents an hour.

Carpenters and sheet metal workers, who will sign new contracts in July, are asking increases of from 15 cents to 25 cents an hour.

CHIEF O'BRIEN FORGIVES ROBBER WHO SHOT HIM

Tells Henry Carr, Brought From Indiana, That He Looks on Him as "Big Boy, Gone Wrong."

PRISONER TELLS OF HOLDUP OF JEWELER

Relates How Robbery Was Planned in Saloon and Admits He and Joseph Henry Did Shooting.

Henry Carr, 26 years old, of 1423A Bremen avenue, has confessed to Chief of Detectives Hannegan that he was one of two men who fired at Police Chief Martin O'Brien Oct. 31 when O'Brien was shot in the neck while trying to capture two of three men who had attempted to rob H. H. Gerhardt's jewelry store, 3324 Olive street. The Chief, who was in a hospital about a week, has recovered.

Chief Offers Forgiveness.

When he had concluded his confession Carr asked for an interview with Chief O'Brien and the latter joined him in Chief Hannegan's office. Carr wanted to know if O'Brien would shake hands with him.

"Sure," replied the Chief, extending his hand. "I'll do more than that. I'll forgive you. You're just a big boy gone wrong, and I believe there is enough manhood left in you to help you straighten yourself out. Consired your mother. When I testify against you I am simply going to tell the truth." Carr burst into tears.

Carr fled after the shooting. He was traced to Terre Haute, Ind., by Detectives Kaiser and Wetzel and they arrested him there Wednesday.

Carr named Joseph Henry and Armin A. Ellerbrake, who are under indictment for the crime, as his accomplices. Both made confessions in which they named Carr as the third robber. Henry in his confession said Carr shot Chief O'Brien.

Carr, in custody of the detectives, arrived in St. Louis yesterday afternoon and was identified by Chief O'Brien as the man who shot him.

Discussing the robbery, Carr said: "We walked in and told the clerk to 'put 'em up.' A fellow upstairs came down and started shooting at us. I said: 'Let's haul' and we all ran. Henry and I stayed together. I don't know what became of Ellerbrake. We ran to an alley at Compton avenue between Olive and Pine streets. Henry pushed in a gate and we saw we were in a trap.

Both Fired, He Says.

"Henry said: 'Here comes a machine.' Henry and I had exchanged pistols. He had mine and I had his. Mine was bigger and he took it when we entered the jewelry store.

"The machine was so close to us we didn't have a chance to get away. Henry shot once. Then I shot once at a man who was jumping from the machine (Chief O'Brien) and coming toward us. I think he was in the act of jumping when I shot him. I didn't know him. I thought it was just some citizen who was trying to earn a reputation. I can't say whether my bullet or Henry's hit him. I have since learned he was Chief O'Brien.

Henry in his confession denied that he fired a shot. He said the only shot was the one fired by Carr. Chief O'Brien after the shooting said he heard two shots.

Fled to Illinois.

Carr said he and Henry, after the shooting ran through a yard and hid for a few minutes in a cellar, waiting to see if they would be pursued. When the coast was clear, they got out of the cellar and separated. Carr said he went to his home and left Henry's pistol there. He remained in St. Louis a week and then went to East St. Louis. There, he said, he read of Henry's arrest and confession, and, becoming scared, he went to Vandalia, Ill., and later to Terre Haute.

COLBY NOMINATION FAVORABLY REPORTED BY COMMITTEE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The nomination of Bainbridge Colby to be Secretary of State, which has been the subject of extensive hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was favorably reported today by the committee without a record vote.

The committee's report generally was regarded as forecasting favorable action by the Senate, although it was indicated that there probably would be considerable debate. Some Republican members of the committee, it was understood, said they would reserve liberty of action in the Senate.

Only a few minutes of discussion preceded the committee's decision. It was said to have been agreed that Colby's statement yesterday made it unnecessary to call additional witnesses.

50 CLAIMANTS TO SWISS WATCH NEGRO SAID HE FOUND

Letters From Missouri, Iowa and Illinois Received by East St. Louis Police Chief.

There have been more than 50 claimants thus far to a Swiss movement watch which was found by the police in an East St. Louis pawnshop several days ago and the claims are still pouring in on Police Chief Mulconnery of that city. From the returns he believes a census of those in this section of the country who have lost Swiss watches would show a startling total.

The Post-Dispatch last Tuesday told of the arrest of a negro who took the watch to a pawnshop and asked if it was good. The jeweler appraised the watch at $500 and called the police. It was said in the item that the watch had a Swiss movement and bore a certain number.

Within a short time telephone messages, personal callers and letters began to come in to police headquarters.

The watch had as many claimants as a hermit's estate. Letters came from towns in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and other states telling of Swiss watches lost by the writers or stolen from them. Three of the letters gave the case and works numbers which had been published. One woman wrote that she could identify the watch if the police would send it to her for inspection. Another woman telephoned from St. Louis that she had lost a watch with a Swiss movement. When asked what was the number on her watch, she said: "Why, I don't know. You see, the thief took the whole watch, numbers and all."

ALDERMAN HAS BILL TO TAX RECEIPTS OF CHECK ROOMS

Assistant City Counselor Estimates Measure Will Yield $20,000 Revenue Annually.

A bill providing for a $25 a year license for checkrooms in hotels and cafes and the additional payment of 5 per cent of gross receipts to the city will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen today by Alderman Otto. Failure to report gross receipts would be punishable by a fine of from $25 to $100.

Associate City Counsellor Griffin, who drafted the bill, estimates that it will yield $20,000 a year revenue. Some hotels now sell checking privileges for as high as $2500 a year, he said.

MODIFIED PREAMBLE ADOPTED IN SENATE; VOTE ON TREATY TODAY

PREAMBLE FOR RESERVATIONS TO THE TREATY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.

THE preamble to the reservations to the peace treaty as it came up in the Senate for the final fight on ratification follows:

That the Senate advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany concluded at Versailles on the 28th day of June, 1919, subject to the following reservations and understandings, which are hereby made a part and condition of this resolution of ratification, which ratification is not to take effect or bind the United States until the said reservations and understandings adopted by the Senate have been accepted as a part and a condition of this resolution of ratification by the allied and associated Powers, and a failure on the part of the allied and associated Powers to make objection to said reservations and understandings prior to the deposit of ratification by the United States shall be taken as a full and final acceptance of such reservations and understandings by said Powers.

Bipartisan Conference Measure Relieves Powers From Indicating Acceptance of Reservations.

IRISH RESERVATION PASSED, 38 TO 36

Declares That U. S. Adheres to Principles of Self Determination—Senators Expect Pact to Be Beaten.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Preparing for final vote on ratification of the peace treaty, the Senate today adopted the modified reservation preamble worked out in the bipartisan conference, under which affirmative acceptance of the reservations by the other Powers would not be required.

The preamble provides that "failure on the part of the allied and associated Powers to make objection to said reservations and understandings prior to the deposit of ratification by the United States shall be taken as a full and final acceptance of such reservations and understandings by said Powers."

The preamble was offered by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, and accepted without a roll call.

Amendment Is Beaten.

By a vote of 41 to 42 the Senate refused to write into the preamble a provision that the ratification should not be binding unless the President deposited it within 90 days after the Senate acted.

When debate on the question of ratification began there was a virtually unanimous agreement among Senators that the treaty would fail and speakers on both sides sought to shift the blame for the outcome. It seemed likely that the session would run well into the night if the leaders carried out their plan to insist on a vote before adjournment.

The amendment was presented by Senator Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, and was supported by 38 Republicans and Senators Reed, of Missouri, Shields, of Tennessee, and Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrats, while Senators Cummins of Iowa, Jones of Washington, and Townsend of Michigan, Republicans, voted against it.

The ratification resolution still was incomplete when the Senators met for the session destined to become historic. Plans for perfecting the resolution yesterday had been swept aside by the bitter controversy over the Irish qualification, rivaling in some aspects the long drawn out fight over the reservation to article 10, which was thrust forward unexpectedly in an unsuccessful effort at modification. Between the two, there was no time left for other than minor questions.

Despite the fact that the Democrats put forward and assisted in the adoption of the Irish reservation, Senate leaders said today the line-up on final ratification was not changed and many predicted the treaty would fail to receive the necessary two-thirds majority. In that case, a motion to reconsider will be made promptly, the Republicans hoping that some Democrats will give assent to the pact after having recorded their objections to the reservations adopted by the majority. The final vote probably will not be reached until late tonight.

After the Irish reservation was adopted last night by a vote of 38 to 36, over the protests of Senator Lodge, an attempt to modify the article 10 reservation was made by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, who declared he could not vote for ratification otherwise. His substitute was voted down and the Senate then reaffirmed its adoption of article 10.

In the course of the heated debate, Senator Simmons charged that Senator Lodge had prevented a compromise by changing his mind twice when agreement was close. Senator Lodge served notice that there would be no further changes in the reservations and that if the Democrats did not supply the votes necessary for ratification, then the issue would be taken to the "tribunal of the American people."

Debate Becomes Bitter.

Debate on the Gerry Irish reservation reached a high pitch of bitterness with many charges of political manipulation and bad faith. Republican leaders repeatedly tried to modify or strike out the general declaration of adherence to the doctrine of self-determination.

Senator Lodge declared that such

ORDER AGAINST KINLOCH STRIKERS TO CONTINUE

Judge Faris Rescinds Clause Forbidding Payment of Strike Benefits.

The temporary restraining order against local No. 2 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, issued March 2 by Federal Judge Faris, will continue in force, under a ruling by Judge Faris today, until he shall decide on the petition of the Kinloch Telephone Co. and the Kinloch Long Distance Telephone Co. for a permanent injunction. The injunction suit was caused by a strike of 39 of the Kinloch electrical employes, which began Feb. 9. Hearing of the testimony was concluded today.

One clause of the temporary order was stricken out by Judge Faris, and will be no longer in force. This was the clause enjoining the union from paying strike benefits, or giving financial assistance, directly or indirectly, to any employe of the Kinloch companies who is or may be on strike.

Reference to Clayton Act.

In announcing the continuance of the temporary order, with the exception of the strike benefit clause, Judge Faris raised the question whether the Clayton anti-trust act, in its labor provisions, would affect the issues in the injunction suit. He said that, in granting the temporary restraining order, he had "quite lost sight" of the Clayton act, and had proceeded on the precedent afforded by the suit of the Hitchman Coal and Coke Co. of West Virginia against John Mitchell and other officials of the United Mine Workers.

In the Hitchman-Mitchell case, the United States Supreme Court held that a restraining order against labor union activity, in the case of men employed under contract, was valid. However, the Court now says, the Clayton act was passed since that decision, and he asked that the counsel confine their arguments, in briefs to be submitted, to this question of law. The Judge said he was fully acquainted with the facts.

Strikers Among Witnesses.

Judge Faris said five or six days would be given for the preparing of briefs.

The concluding testimony in the permanent injunction suit, heard this morning, was that of several of the striking employes.

Four of the employes testified that they voted, in the meeting of Jan. 30, for the strike, which was called to begin Feb. 9. The company has sought to show that the strike vote was cast by those not its employes and that the Kinloch employes voted against it.

Some of the men said they reported for work the morning of Feb. 9, not having been notified by the union of the strike, and that they first learned of the calling of the strike through remarks made by R. Morton Moss, superintendent of the company.

U. S. AGAINST SALES IN NEUTRAL LANDS FOR INDEMNITY

Under Secretary Polk Says Reparations Commission's Ruling Violates Agreement With Germany.

REMONSTRANCES TO BE MADE TO ALLIES

America Unable to Exercise Veto Power on Question, He Explains, Because Treaty Is Not Ratified.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—"Strong remonstrances" have been made by the American Government against rulings of the Allied Reparations Commission that under the peace treaty, sale of certain German property in neutral countries can be forced, if necessary to satisfy the initial payment of the German indemnity.

Undersecretary Polk of the State Department, writing today to Senator Henderson, Democrat, Nevada, said "a further protest" was in preparation as such a construction of the treaty was contrary to an official interpretation exchanged between Germany and the allied Powers.

Letter Response to Inquiry.

Polk's letter was in response to an inquiry by Senator Henderson regarding reports that Great Britain had requested that German property and all the rights of German citizens in electrical enterprises in South America be taken over by the commission and subsequently transferred to Great Britain as part of the indemnity due it by Germany.

Polk said the State Department had no information as to this, but added:

"There has been received, however, certain information having relation to your inquiry to the effect that the allied Governments represented on the Reparations Commission have advanced and provisionally adopted a construction of article 235 which would empower the Reparations Commission to demand payment by Germany of the initial 20,000,000,000 gold marks in any commodities—gold, ships or otherwise, which the Reparations Commission may desire; and in the exercise of such power the commission may require the sale of German property in neutral countries, at least, if in the form of credits or securities. Under such power it is possible that the sale to the Reparations Commission of the securities controlled by German corporate enterprises in South America might be required of Germany.

"The department is endeavoring unofficially to keep in touch with matters coming up for decision before the commission in order that any action of the commission which might be in derobation of American trade opportunities should not pass unchallenged.

Handicapped Through Treaty.

The Department is handicapped however, in that it has no right to demand such information and this Government not having ratified the treaty cannot exercise the right to veto an interpretation of the commission's powers such as contained in the construction of article 235 mentioned above.

"Nevertheless strong remonstrance has been made and a further protest is in preparation on the ground that the assumption and use of such Powers is prejudicial to general economic reconstruction; offers an opportunity to the Government's dominating the reparations commission indirectly to exercise a dangerous controlling influence on provisional trade with Germany and incidentally is unwarranted by the terms of the treaty and contrary to the spirit if not the letter of the official interpretation given Germany by the allied Powers before the signing of the treaty.

U. S. Can't Exercise Veto.

"The result of such protest is hard to predict, as by the terms of the treaty the influence and power of a large part of the civilized world is concentrated behind a decision of the Reparation Commission and the absolute veto power specially provided to the United States in such matters can be exercised only if and when we ratify the treaty."

Senator Henderson said the official interpretation referred to by Polk was contained in formal notes exchanged between Germany and the allies in which the understanding was reached that the property of German citizens in neutral countries could not be taken. The Senator also said that inquiries at the State Department disclosed that no reply to the United States' protest had been received.

Should Noske retire it seems probable he will be succeeded by Gen. von Seecht, now in command of the troops in Berlin. Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Justice, is being mentioned for the premiership in the proposed reorganized Cabinet.

Noske Denounced in Assembly.

Noske was present at the Assembly session today when Phillip Scheldemann, Majority Socialist leader and former Premier, attacked the Minister of Defense and demanded a radical overhauling of the Cabinet.

Herr Henke, leader of the Independent Socialists, asked Noske where he was when the Kapp forces had their hands at the Government's throat and why he did not "break their bones," but Noske by this time had disappeared from the chamber.

Representatives of all the principal parties at the session delivered speeches condemning the Kapp move, and urging the punishment of the guilty. Scheidemann said:

"Any one who has eyes could see how anti-republican sentiment ahd been growing in the security guards, the monarchist officers becoming more and more insolent."

He attributed Kapp's downfall to the response made by the workingmen to the call for a general strike.

Warrants for Leaders.

The Government has instructed the Court at Leipsic to draw warrants against nine of the principals in the revolt movement. But there is still discussion of how severely these men shall be punished. One element in the Government has suggested that only a single culprit be shot as an example. Efforts were being made tonight to have the Socialists agree to this program instead of insisting upon the execution of all those who should eventually be convicted of treason.

Decision has been reached to grant amnesty to the soldiers who took part in the revolt last Saturday, but to prosecute the leaders of the movement. Reports made by loyal officials indicate the troops involved numbered from 40,000 to 50,000, and it was thought best to get them out of Berlin before attempting to apprehend leaders.

Albert Flies to Stuttgart.

The first news of the fall of the Kapp Government came over the telephone from Berlin and this was followed soon by the arrival by airplane of Dr. Albert, Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, from the capital.

Chancellor Bauer caused a sensation at yesterday's sitting of the assembly when he revealed the conditions presented the Government by Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and Gen. von Luettwitz before they entered Berlin last Saturday morning.

"They wished to prepare for a war of revenge and plunge the country into another cataclysm," cried the Chancellor. "Pitiless punishment must come to these offenders, their fortunes must be seized and they must be tried before the Supreme Court at Liepsic."

Loyal Troops Guarding the Streets of Berlin.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Thursday, March 18.—Vice Chancellor Schiffer, in whose hands the sudden retirement of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp temporarily placed the administrative power and Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, are engaged in bringing about order in the city and restoring activities to their normal basis.

Regular troops, loyal to the Ebert regime, are guarding the streets, and detachments of them spent part of the day in tearing down wire entanglements and barricades which the revolutionary soldiers had erected in profusion. In firing a mine to destroy a barricade at Kottbuser, in Southwestern Berlin, 12 persons were killed and 28 injured.

Agitators yesterday harangued crowds against foreigners. There was agitation against Jews, many of the street speakers calling upon the people to keep them out of public office.

DESCRIPTION OF KAPP'S EVACUATION OF GERMAN CAPITAL

By the Associated Press.

COBLENZ, March 19.—Twenty persons were killed when Gen. Von Luetwitz' troops fired into the crowd as the soldiers were leaving Berlin.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.—All Germany except the Southern States is rebellious and Berlin is a "barrel of gunpowder which may be ignited at any time," says a Berlin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. filed at Berlin yesterday.

The dispatch describes the withdrawal from Berlin of the iron division and naval brigades, which marched down Unter den Linden at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a pouring rain. Crowds, the majority of which were extremist radical workers, looked on as company after company filed down the street in the direction of the Brandenburg Gate on their way to Doeberitz.

"The soldiers marched to the accompaniment of drums and with Prussian banners flying," the message says. "They were armed, carrying their rifles ready to fire and with their fingers on the triggers. Their behavior could not have been more provocative. Workers standing on the sidewalks seemed boiling with excitement and none could understand why the troops had been permitted to withdraw without giving up their arms. Few believed they would keep their promise to disarm at Doeberitz.

"Many soldiers smiled mockingly at the crowd as though saying: 'Wait a while; we shall return.' This increased the antagonism of the spectators, many of whom shouted, whistled and cat-called, while others hurled such epithets as 'scoundrels,' 'beasts' and 'swine' at the soldiers, who responded with contemptous looks as they handled their grenades menacingly.

"From the Hotel Adlon elegantly dressed women waved their handkerchiefs at the soldiers, this raising to a white heat the anger of the workers. They suddenly made a rush toward the hotel and some actually invaded the vestibule before being repulsed by a strong detachment of security troops guarding the allied missions at the hostelry.

"Hardly had the last soldier passed the Brandenburg gate when the rear guard turned and fired a volley into the crowd standing in the street. Those near the middle of the roadway had no recourse but to fling themselves on the pavement. Along Unter den Linden, Sommerstrasse and Budapesterstrasse, men started to run away. Many of these were either killed or wounded during the firing which lasted for half a minute. Four dead and 10 wounded were carried into the Hotel Adlon.

"Members of the Security Guards stationed at the Brandenburg gate did not interfere during the firing, being few in number.

Workers Rush Troops.

"A little later, near the Parliament buildings, a crowd of workers rushed a detachment of Baltic troops who were passing, and later began firing, the sounds of rifle fire mingling with the shrill cries and groans of the wounded. For a time all was chaos and pandemonium and it appears that in the confusion the soldiers here shot a number of their own men. The exact number of those killed and wounded could not be ascertained this evening. Twenty persons were killed in a subsequent clash at Charlottenburg, and a still more serious encounter was reported from Kottbutzen, but no details are at hand.

"Workers believe the soldiers may return presently in a crisis more serious than that of the past few days. They are particularly furious over the appointment of Gen. von Seecht as commander of forces here, he being placed in the same category as Gen. von Luettwitz."

Extreme Radical Movement Reported in Saxony.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 19.—Reports have been received of an extreme radical movement in Saxony and the adjacent parts of the Thuringia. Four hundred delegates attended a congress of workers' councils of those districts at Chemnitz yesterday.

With only two dissenting votes, they passed resolutions demanding the disarmament and disbandment of the regular troops, the security guard and the volunteers; the formation of workmen's guards, under control of the workers' councils; the organization of revolutionary employes and workers' councils; the convocation of a central soviet congress; the establishment of revolutionary courts to try Dr. Kapp, Gen. von Luettwitz and their supporters; the release of all political prisoners and payment for time lost during the general strike.

Bomb Exploded in Front of British Embassy.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.—A bomb exploded outside the British embassy in Berlin last night as a naval division was marching past, a dispatch says. Several persons were killed or injured, but the embassy apparently suffered no damage.

BRITISH DEPORT TURKISH LEADERS ON WAR VESSEL

Woman "Firebrand" Among Nationalist Chiefs Sent From Constantinople, Probably to Malta.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—Halide Edib, the most prominent woman leader among the Turkish Nationalists, and Reouf Bey, Deputy for Sivas and mouthpiece of Mustapha Kemal here; Cara Vassif Bey and several other members of the Chamber of Deputies, have been deported, presumably to Malta, by the British. They were placed on board the cruiser Hebiscus yesterday shortly before that warship sailed.

After Mustapha Kemal and Reouf Bey, Halide Edib was probably the best known speaker and organizer in the Nationalist movement. When the Greeks landed at Smyrna and some Turks were killed, she cast aside all traditions of Turkish women. She organized and addressed mass meetings and so inflamed the Turks here against alleged plans for the dismemberment of the country that the allied High Commissioners forbade further meetings. She has been described in the British press as a "firebrand and a dangerous agitator."

She was graduated from the American Woman's College here and won recognition as a novelist and poet. She is a widely traveled, handsome woman and distinguished herself during the war as an aid to her husband who was head of the Turkish Red Crescent, which fills the place of the Red Cross in the Turkish armies.

Oppose Allied Proposals.

Leaders of the Turkish Nationalists from Azerbaijan to Palestine seem to be co-operating in a movement to oppose allied proposals for a peace unfavorable to Turkey. Men closely associated with Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Nationalists, have been skilfully promoting opposition to all foreign interference, it is asserted, and the Arabs, Kurds and other tribes are said to be alligned with forces planning to checkmate any movement on the part of the Entente looking to the partitioning of the country.

The whole movement seems to be political rather than religious, it being declared by many not to be pan-Islamic in any way. Whether Bolshevism enters into the situation has not as yet developed, but it may turn in that direction. Mesopotamia has so far held aloof from the Russian Bolsheviki.

Turkish newspapers frankly say the allies cannot muster sufficient strength to force an unacceptable peace upon the country. They point to Capt. Gabriele d'Annunzio's defiance of the supreme council of the peace conference and other instances in which the allies have been powerless to enforce orders, and say it would be better in any event to risk humiliating defeat rather than have the country "turned into a group of European dependencies."

Only One Massacre.

With the exception of the Marash incident there has been no killing of Christians, although there are large numbers of Armenians and Greeks at the mercy of the Turks in Asia Minor. These people are living in terror lest they be attacked when the peace terms are made known by the allies, and even here well-to-do Armenians and Greeks are moving into the embassy section, which is under better police protection than outlying parts of the city. In some sections of Asia Minor Christians have appealed to the Entente to send troops, while in other regions the allies have been asked to withdraw their troops, it being said the presence of the soldiers adds to the danger.

French detachments are reported to be meeting stubborn resistance in their effort to occupy districts northeast of Aleppo, where British troops were formerly stationed.

Americans in Asia Minor have been requested to remain absolutely neutral in the event of disorders in districts occupied by foreign armies. Great reliance is placed in Mustapha Kemal's pledge that Americans are not to be harmed, and many Armenians are placing themselves under the protection of American missionaries and relief workers.

The population is in a general state of distrust and the persistent attempts of certain local newspapers to prove that all disturbances and unrest in the near East are due solely to the failure of the United States to assume the mandate for Turkey have become distasteful to resident Americans.

Cocoanut Oil Makes a Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

8-CENT CAR FARE WILL CONTINUE UNTIL APRIL 15

State Public Service Commission Extends Present Rates Temporarily by Three to One Vote.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—A temporary order extending the period of 8-cent street car fares in St. Louis until April 15 was issued today by the Public Service Commission.

A hearing on the application of the Receiver for the United Railways for a continuation of that rate of fare was concluded before the commission yesterday in Jefferson City. The original order fixing that rate expires tomorrow, and some action thus became necessary.

The commission stated that the extension to April 15 was to give it time to examine the exhibits and review the testimony in the hearing.

Bean Only Dissenter.

The order was signed by Chairman Busby and Commissioners Simpson and Blair.

Commissioner Bean, in dissenting fro mthe order, states that in his opinion the receiver failed to justify a continuance of the higher fares and as a result the United Railways should be denied an extension of its present rates beyond a temporary period ending April 15 next. He asserts that if further extension is granted and the commission should then hold the present rates to be excessive the public would have no means of recovering the overcharge. Whatever order is now made, he holds, should be a determination of the issue rather than a postponement of a decision.

Commissioner Bean declared that the receiver should not be authorized to charge more than 7 cents for adult passengers nor more than 3 cents for children between the ages of 5 and 12 years.

Hearing Yesterday.

The hearing yesterday ended with an argument between T. E. Francis, attorney for the company, and C. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city. Both admitted that the continuance of the 8-cent fare or the discontinuance of it, could be justified only by the valuation placed upon the property. Engineers for the commission who have been engaged in making a valuation of the property more than a year will not complete it for several months.

Francis asked Smith if he did not think it would be better for the 8-cent fare to be continued pending the valuation at the risk of overcharging the patrons $3 or $4 each during the next six months' period than to deny it, and risk wrecking the property.

"I do not," retorted Smith. "The 8-cent fares never were justified in the first place. The riding public has been paying long enough. I don't believe that any order should be made which will cost the street car patrons of St. Louis more than $1,000,000 a year unless it could be justified by the facts, and in this case that cannot be done."

Post-Dispatch Editorial Read.

Smith asked permission to read into the record an editorial from the Post-Dispatch comparing the low rates and increased travel in Philadelphia with the high rates and reduced travel in St. Louis, and declared that if the rates in St. Louis were lowered to sell four rides for 25 cents, it would not be more than a year until everybody would realize that it would pay to go back to the old 5-cent fare.

Liquor Price Fixed in Rhode Island.

Text of Reservation to Treaty Adopted by Senate on Irish Freedom

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 18.

THE reservation to the peace treaty regarding Ireland was proposed by Senator Gerry, Democrat, Rhode Island. It follows:

"In consenting to the ratification of the treaty with Germany the United States adheres to the principle of self-determination and to the resolution of sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people for a government of their own choice, adopted by the Senate June 6, 1919, and declares that when such government is attained by Ireland, a consummation it is hoped is at hand, it should promptly be admitted as a member of the league of nations."

SYMPATHY FOR IRISH FREEDOM DECLARED IN SENATE RESERVATION

a policy had a touch of "hypocrisy" when put forward by a nation which had fought for four years to hold the South in the union against its will.

Senator Sterling characterized the reservation as "an underhand attack" connived at by Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic leader, to defeat the treaty.

Among the Democrats Senators Wolcott, Delaware, and Trammell, Florida, assailed the proposal as an attempt to drag politics into the treaty fight, while Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, leader of the irreconcilables, declared the effort of Senator Lodge to amend the self-determination feature was a political move which it was hard to find words to describe.

The first roll call on the reservation came while the Senate was in committee of the whole and when the result was seen the Republican leaders tried in vain to stave off the second vote. Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, stirred the galleries to applause when he concluded a plea against delay by declaring the country was tired of the treaty debate.

How They Voted.

The roll call on the Gerry resolution follows:

For adoption:

Republicans—Borah, Brandegee, Capper, Colt, Curtis, France, Frelinghuysen, Gronna, Johnson (California), Jones (Washington), La Follette, McLean, McNary, Moses, Norris, Sutherland and Watson—17.

Democrats—Ashurst, Gerry, Gore, Harris, Harrison, Henderson, Hitchcock, Hendrick, Kirby, McKellar, Nugent, Phelan, Pittman, Bransdell, Reed, Sheppard, Shields, Smith (Maryland), Smith (South Carolina), Walsh (Massachusetts), and Walsh (Montana)—21.

Democrats — Beckham, Dial, Fletcher, Gay, Jones (New Mexico), King, Myers, Pomerene, Robinson, Smith (Georgia), Swanson, Thomas, Trammell, Underwood, Williams and Wolcott. Total, 16.

Total against—36.

Of Senators absent and paired it was announced that Senators Culberson, Texas.; Johnson, South Dakota and Overman, North Carolina; Owen, Oklahoma, and Stanley, Kentucky, Democrats, favored the resolution, and that Senator Fernald, Republican, Maine, opposed it.

GIN FOUND AT PAINTER'S HOME

Liquor Stolen From House in Which Man Had Worked.

Three bottles of gin stolen from the home of E. W. Grove Jr. of Hampton Park, St. Louis County, were recovered yesterday at the home of Thomas J. Henderson of 1250A South Vandeventer avenue a painter who had been working at the Grove home. Henderson was arrested.

Sheriff Bopp of St. Louis County said it was reported to him that 30 bottles of gin and 24 bottles of other liquors had been stolen from Grove, but Grove today told a Post-Dispatch reporter the three quarts of gin recovered at Henderson's home were all that was taken.

CIRCUIT CLERK AT ST. CHARLES SHORT $4234, AUDIT REVEALS

Total of Discrepancies of George B. Raus Includes $1294 Paid Into Treasury.

The shortage of George B. Raus, Circuit Clerk of St. Charles County, is $4234, according to a report filed yesterday with the clerk of the County Court by State Auditor Hackman. This includes the $1294 which he paid into the county treasury on Feb. 10, after the County Court had ordered Prosecuting Attorney Haessler to take steps to collect fees which Raus had not accounted for.

The audit which was recently completed disclosed not only the increase in the amount of the shortage, but the fact that there is no record, in 145 cases, of collection of costs or deposits made by litigants to secure costs. It is not known whether Raus collected costs and received deposits and failed to account for them, or merely neglected to collect the costs or require the deposits. The report does not make known the total of the costs or the required deposits in these cases.

When Raus was asked for a statement by a Post-Dispatch reporter he said: "Tell the people for me that I expect to square up soon."

100 WARRANTS FOR DEPORTATION CANCELED

Department of Labor Liberating by Wholesale Agitators Arrested in Raids.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, aMrch 19.—Wholesale cancellations of deportation warrants against Communists and anarchists have been ordered by the Department of Labor.

More than 100 of the agitators arrested during the recent raids conducted by the Department of Justice have been liberated during the last few days.

It was reported that Martens, Russian Soviet representative, was among those from whom the ban was lifted, but on demand by the Department of Justice his deportation warrant was returned.

The Department of Justice refused to discuss the matter though indignation at the interference with its campaign was evident.

The reversal of the deportation policy is attributed to Assistant Secretary of Labor Post, who is supreme in the department during Secretary Wilson's illness. Secretary Post said that he had canceled a good many warrants, but that it would be necessary to go through the files to determine the reason in each case. "In every case canceled I have been of the opinion that the man did not come under the deportation law," he said.

AUTO USED IN DELIVERY STATION HOLDUP FOUND

Machine, Left in Rear of 4205 Ashland Avenue, Identified as One Stolen Last Night.

$3600 OBTAINED BY FIVE MEN

Six Clerks in Nugents' Depot at 3733 Bell Avenue Covered With Revolvers—25 Drivers in Yard.

The automobile used by five robbers who held up employes of the delivery relay station of the B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co. at 3733 Bell avenue at 8:30 p. m. yesterday and escaped with $3600 was found abandoned in an alley in the rear of 4205 Ashland avenue at 1 p. m. today. It was identified as one stolen about 8 o'clock last night from Mrs. Elizabeth Kaemmerer of 4234W Kossuth avenue. It was taken from the garage in the rear of her home.

Slips of paper such as are used by Nugent delivery men were found in the machine. These are believed to have been in the money drawer which the robbers stole. The drawer was found by boys this morning in a clump of bushes in O'Fallon Park, between the park keeper's house and the boat landing. It contained a check for $9.15, a driver's slip, two pennies and a crank and key for an automobile.

Twenty-five drivers and chauffeurs were in a vehicle yard back of the office when the robbery occurred, but it was conducted so quietly that they knew nothing of it until the thieves had departed.

The money stolen represented collections made by drivers on cash delivery packages.

Six Men in Office.

Five men drove up to the relay station, a first-floor office, in a machine later described as a dilapidated Ford touring car. One remained in the machine and kept the engine running. Another stood near the door and acted as a lookout and three entered the office, in which there were six men, George E. Laubach, 3226A Cherokee street, traffic manager; Alvin Phillips, 2604 Pennsylvania avenue, cashier; John Lynch, 3539 Cozens avenue; William Hackman, 3002 Prairie avenue; William Furber, 3529 Cozens avenue, and Thomas Gaffney, 3829 Windsor place, drivers.

The three robbers carried pistols. One who seemed to be the leader, said: "No funny business. Throw 'em up." The six men in the office obeyed and held up their hands.

Robbers Escape in Auto.

Laubach and Phillips were ordered to come from behind the counter and line up against the wall with the drivers. The leader then said to Phillips: "You get that money." Covering Phillips with his pistol the robber walked with him to the counter. Phillips pulled out the money drawer. The robber snatched it from him and ran out. His two companions backed out, still covering the employes with their revolvers. On the sidewalk they were joined by the lookout. All the robbers jumped into the machine and it drove west on Bell avenue toward Vandeventer avenue.

Laubach told policemen the robbers were all young, apparently ranging in age from 19 to 23. He described the leader as being about 6 feet tall, of dark complexion and wearing a blue suit and a dark cap. One of the men wore a rain coat and the lookout at the door wore a fur cap.

Rillist said today that Matthews formerly was employed as an electrical inspector, but that because of a press of work, he decided to assign him to some work in checking up poles. Matthews, he said, refused to accept the transfer and he told him that refusal was insubordination. He thereupon discharged Matthews, he said. He declared he never had made any other charge against him. Hooke said the suit was his first information of any sort on the matter.

LIEUT. M'GINNIS ON TRIAL, WITH WIFE AT SIDE TO AID HIM

Girl With Whom He Eloped From St. Louis Expected to Side With Him in Mann Act Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The trial of Elzie V. McGinnis of St. Louis, who served in France as a First Lieutenant in the 138th (St. Louis) Infantry and who is charged with violating the Mann act as a result of his desertion of his wife and his elopement to this city last July with Miss Esther Botts, a 19-year-old St. Louis girl, was called in the United States District Court here today before Federal Judge Robert Bean.

Seated in the courtroom with the defendant are the other two figures in the triangle. The wife, Mrs. Myrtle McGinnis of 1334 Temple place, St. Louis, who brought about her husband's arrest in January, is at his side, professing her love for him and speaking words of sympathy and encouragement. Near by is the girl, the Government's pivotal witness, whose love for McGinnis, it is said, has not waned and whose testimony is expected to be disappointing for the prosecution.

Wife Obtained Affidavits.

The defense, in which the wife is expected to take an important part, will be that McGinnis at the time of his departure from St. Louis still was suffering from the effects of gas and wounds suffered in action overseas, which caused him to be mentally unbalanced. Affidavits, obtained by the wife in St. Louis, will be introduced to bear out this contention.

The unfaltering devotion of Miss Botts to the man who brought her here is expected to find expression in statements on the witness stand that she defrayed her own expenses for the trip, a point, which, the prosecution admits, will have an important technical bearing on the case. It is also believed that she will assert that she knew him to be a married man when she left St. Louis and that her departure was made of her own accord.

Mrs. McGinnis, since her arrival here two days ago, has been constantly in the company of her husband, who has been at liberty under bond for more than a month. Discussing the case with a Post-Dispatch correspondent this morning, before the opening of the trial, she professed her devotion for McGinnis, attributing his actions to his experiences overseas and expressed forgiveness for the girl.

"I shall remain with my husband as a loyal wife should," she said. "He is not to blame. I am with him to the last because I love him dearly. I bear no resentment either towards him or towards Miss Botts, and all that I want is to see my husband cleared."

Talks in Courtroom.

The interview was obtained in the courtroom, where McGinnis, his wife and his attorney, Clarence Stafford, were seated. Mrs. McGinnis expressed regret that the Federal authorities would not consent to the transfer of the case to St. Louis for trial, and then launched into an account of her husband's experiences overseas. She was interrupted frequently during her narrative by McGinnis, who added details to her recital of the events which caused him to be wounded three times in action and once gassed in a abandoned French orchard. His wounds, she said, were received in a charge upon a machine gun nest.

"Would not anyone of these experiences have been enough to unbalance Mr. McGinnis?" she asked.

"We were so happy before this happened that I am sure he was not responsible for what he did."

It is expected that the selection of a jury will consume the greater part of today. The case is being prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Ben Geis.

McGinnis is 33 years old. He was employed in the general offices of the M., K. & T. Railroad as secretary to one of the officials, and upon a visit to the office after his return from France in January, 1919, became acquainted with Miss Botts, who worked there as a stenographer.

McGinnis resided with his wife at 1334 Temple place until July 21, when he departed, taking with him Liberty Bonds and money amounting to about $1500, belonging to his wife. The next day the wife learned that Miss Botts, who resided with her parents at 3640 Russell avenue, had disappeared. A few weeks afterward Mrs. McGinnis placed the case in the hands of agents of the Department of Justice.

Six of Seven Organizations Requested to Select Representatives Have Complied.

Six of the seven organizations requested to name representatives to act on an Advisory Committee to supervise the expenditure of the $24,000,000 bond issue, provided the measure is passed at the special election, May 11, have complied. The St. Louis Bar Association has not yet named a representative but the president, Marion C. Early, has notified Mayor Kiel that one will be named.

Representatives named are Richard Moore, representing the Manufacturers' Association; Charles J. Lammert, the Building Trades' Council; Baxter L. Brown, an engineer, the Chamber of Commerce; John H. Farish, president of the Real Estate Exchange, representing that organization; E. C. Andrews, the Merchants' Exchange, and David Kreyling, the Central Trades and Labor Union.

Two Get 5 Years Each for Holdup.

Peter Pappas, 23 years old, and Michael Eagan, 20, charged with holding up the night cashier and stealing $50 in Thompson's restaurant at 718 Olive street, Jan. 31 last, pleaded guilty today on charges of assault to rob and were sentenced to serve five years each in the reformatory at Boonville. On a former arraignment they had pleaded not guilty on a charge of first degree robbery.

GREAT BRITAIN TO BUILD NO NEW WARSHIPS THIS YEAR

Past War Fleet Larger Than American Pacific and Atlantic Squadrons Combined.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—British naval estimates for 1920-21 provide for no new warship construction it was stated today at the British embassy, and provision is made for a post-war fleet in full commission of only 16 battleships, four battle cruisers, 38 light cruisers, with destroyers and submarines in proportion.

Republican leaders in the House virtually have decided against authorizing any new American warships this year, but the pending naval appropriations bill carries funds for continuing work on the 12 superdreadnoughts, six battle cruisers, and a number of destroyers, submarines and other small craft now under construction.

The British post-war fleet as described in the embassy's announcement will be considerably larger than the combined American Atlantic and Pacific fleets, which constitute the second greatest naval fighting force in the world.

WILSON EXPECTS COAL WAGES TO BE BASED ON RECENT REPORT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Wilson expects the bituminous coal operators and miners to work out their contracts for the new coal year, beginning April 1, on the basis of the majority report of the Coal Strike Settlement Commission, Attorney-General Palmer said today after a conference with Secretary Tumulty at the White House.

Palmer said the minority report, made by John P. White, the miners' representative, would be submitted by the President along with the majority report merely because it would have some bearing on any settlement reached at the proposed conferences between the operators and miners.

Palmer was accompanied to the White House by Walker D. Hines, head of the Railroad Administration, the purpose of the visit being to confer with Tumulty on the form to be followed by the President in making public the commission's findings. The Attorney-General said the President in submitting the two reports to the miners and operators would point out the points at issue for their consideration when they meet to arrange the new contracts.

No date for such a meeting has been announced.

MAN SHOT AFTER DICE AND CORN JUICE AFFAIR

Says Loser Attacked Him — Three Barrels of Mash and Paraphernalia Captured.

Fred Mulligan, 28 years old, 3712 Cozens avenue, was shot in the back and seriously wounded yesterday at 5 p. m. in the home of Frank Mattox, 30 years old, 3922 St. Ferdinand avenue, during a dice game that had been enlivened by the consumption of corn juice. In searching the house for Mattox, who fled, the police found an assortment of materials and utensils for making whisky.

Mulligan said that he had gone to the Mattox home about 11 a. m. and had found Joseph Horak, 35, 4513 Newberry Terrace, a huckster, there. Drinking of corn juice followed until, in the afternoon a dice game was started. Mulligan said that he won most of the money and that Mattox, without any more apparent provocation than the loss of his money and the acquisition of much corn juice, attacked him. He said that Mattox drew some instrument from his pocket and began slashing his head, whereupon he ran out. As he did, Mattox, he said, fired five shots. One struck him.

Horak and Mrs. Mattox were arrested. The police are guarding for Federal agents the following things: Three barrels of corn mash, an oil stove, a corn grinder, a can containing corn, two quarts of corn whisky, one-half quart of fusel oil (used to "bead' whisky), a section of a copper coil, a 15-gallon milk can that apparently had been used to boil mash, a 10-gallon keg which had a faucet inserted in its side near the bottom, another 20-gallon keg and a rubber hose.

PATIENT AT HOSPITAL KILLS SELF BY THREE-STORY JUMP

Joshua M. Brown 60 years old of Boston, Mo., where he formerly was employed as station agent for the Missouri Pacific Railway, was found dead at 12:40 o'clock this morning in the back yard of the Missouri Pacific Hospital, California and Eads avenue. His skull and arms had been fractured.

He was lying beneath a window of a third floor room which he had occupied since March 1, when he entered the hospital to be treated for cancer. He was operated on four days ago and apparently had rallied from the effects, but yesterday suffered a relapse followed by spells of delirium.

About 12:30 a. m., when his nurse returned to his room after an absence of a few minutes, Brown was missing. The window was open. A few minutes later attendants found his body in the brick paved yard.

The body was taken to an undertaking establishment, and Brown's wife, Mrs. Rosa Brown, who is staying at 2626 Lafayette avenue, was notified.

MUNICIPAL BONDS INDORSED

Two Improvement Associations to Work for $24,000,000 Issue.

The Chouteau-Lindell Improvement Association has indorsed the proposed $24,000,000 municipal bond issue, after a discussion of all the 18 items. The association represents the business district around Vandeventer and St. Louis avenues.

The South Forest Park Residents' Association, in a meeting held last night at the George Dewey School, Clayton and Central avenues, indorsed the bond issue, and voted to hold a mass meeting in its behalf, at the school, the night of April 15. Park Commissioner Pape, John H. Wartmann and A. Rothenheber were the principal speakers.

TWO YEARS FOR WOMAN WHO KILLED HUSBAND

Mrs. Florence Wiegmann Found Guilty of Fourth Degree Manslaughter by Jury—Motion for New Trial.

Two years in the penitentiary was the penalty assessed by a jury in Judge Taylor's court today against Mrs. Florence Wiegmann of 3913 Washington boulevard, who was found guilty of having shot and killed her husband, Frederick Wiegmann, at their home June 13 last. The verdict was reached at 10:30 o'clock last night and returned to the court sealed.

Mrs. Wiegmann was charged with second degree murder, but the jury was instructed that it might find her guilty on the less serious charge of fourth degree manslaughter and this was done. A motion for a new trial was filed immediately after the verdict was returned and pending a ruling on this motion, she was released on $2000 bond.

No Emotion at Verdict.

When the verdict was announced Mrs. Wiegmann showed no signs of emotion, but later, while waiting for her bond to be signed, she wept. Her calmness on hearing the verdict was a surprise, as she was greatly excited toward the close of the trial yesterday afternoon and became hysterical when an Assistant Circuit Attorney was making his closing argument for the State. She interrupted him several times by crying out that he was not telling the truth.

The motion for a new trial is based on the action of Judge Taylor yesterday in ruling out all testimony which had been intended to show that Mrs. Wiegmann shot her husband in self defense. This had been her original plea, but when she took the witness stand she denied that she shot her husband. She said he had been dragging her about by the hair and that she saw him draw a revolver and heard him threaten her. Then, she said, she heard a shot and her husband fell. She said she never had the revolver in her hand.

Evidence Ruled Out.

When she had given this testimony the Court ruled out all evidence as to her husband's brutality toward her and as to his treatment of her on the day of the shooting.

Her testimony was indirect conflict with her statements to policemen after the shooting, when she said she had taken a revolver from a piano and shot her husband in self defense.

In the motion for a new trial it was alleged that the Court was in error in ruling out self-defense testimony, even though Mrs. Wiegmann denied that she shot her husband.

On cross-examination yesterday Mrs. Wiegmann said she could not remember telling policemen she shot her husband, though she recalled that she made some sort of statement to them early after the shooting.

Alaskans Move for Separation and Soviet, Says Bolsheviki Radio

PARIS, March 19.

"It is announced that the population of Alaska is seeking to separate from the United States and organize a Soviet Government."

NEGROES, FEARING DISSECTION, ATTACK DENTIST; 4 WOUNDED

One Riddled With Bullets, Another Shot by Mistake and Two Policemen Injured.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 19.—Riddled by shots and probably mortally wounded, W. A. Scott, a negro, was captured early this morning after a desperate three-hour battle waged from a barricaded house. Two policemen were wounded in the fracas, and another negro, mistaken for the hunted man, was shot three times by a policeman and beaten by a mob before it was learned that he was not the man.

The belief, which the police say is current among negroes of the city, that white physicians are abducting colored persons for dissecting purposes, was held by the authorities to be responsible for the trouble, which started in Druid Hill avenue, a thoroughfare largely populated by negroes. An exchange of greetings between a white dentist and another white man, according to the police, inspired a crowd of negroes with the belief that the dentist and his friend were looking for prey for the dissecting table and they started to beat the two whites. Two policemen in plain clothes arrested one of the negroes, whose friends succeeded in releasing the prisoner. The plain clothes men were reinforced by two other officers, who attempted to arrest Scott. The negro fled, firing his pistol at the policeman as he ran. The chase ended only when he entered the house in West Saratoga street.

TWO U. S. DRAFT EVADERS TO BE TRIED IN MEXICO CITY

Are Charged With Conspiring to Furnish Arms to Agents of Villa and Felix Diaz.

By the Associated Press.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, March 19.—Edward Filmore and Herman Sidway, alleged American draft evaders, have been ordered removed from Hermosillo to Mexico City to face charges of conspiring to furnish arms and ammunition to warring tribes of Yaqui Indians, according to official advices received here from Hermosillo.

The two men who gave New York City as their home, were taken into custody last week near the State line of Chihuahua by Mexican Government secret service agents. They had in their possession, the advices said, two automobiles loaded with ammunition.

The prisoners were quoted as saying the ammunition was turned over to them on the west coast of Mexico for delivery at a designated spot on the Sonora-Chihuahua line to agents of Villa and Felix Diaz.

A diamond pin, valued at $150, the property of Charles Walker, 520 State street, East St. Louis, was rescued yesterday from the washing machine operated by Lulu Beasley, at her home, 1210 North Third street. Mrs. Walker notified the police when she discovered that the pin had been sent with the wash.

PARK LAKE BEING DRAINED IN INQUIRY INTO BOY'S DEATH

Father of George Probert Believes Failure to Find Cap Will Substantiate Theory He Was Hit by Auto.

The boating lake in O'Fallon Park in which the body of George Probert, 7 years old, 4133W Carter avenue, was found Wednesday at 7 a. m., is being drained in a search for a stocking cap which the boy wore and which was not found with the body. The boy's father believes that failure to find the cap will give credence to his theory that the boy was struck by an automobile before he got into the water.

The Coroner's verdict yesterday was: "Found dead, apparently drowned; whether an accident or a crime, not determined." The funeral of the boy was held today from an undertaking establishment on Florissant avenue to Bethania Cemetery.

By draining of the shallow part of the lake where the body was found it may appear whether the boy waded or fell into the water. His body was found about 12 feet from the bank, with the head pointing toward land. The police have advanced a theory that he fell into the water while playing, possibly with other boys.

While there was a cut on the side of the head, the autopsy physician has reported to the Coroner that the body did not appear to show indications of violence. The autopsy did not show whether drowning was the cause of death, but the undertaker who had previously handled the body informed the autopsy physician that drowning was the cause, in his opinion, as considerable water was removed from the lungs.

"OH WELL, SUCH IS LIFE IN THE FAR WEST," CHAPLIN REPLIES

Mrs. Chaplin Says She Doesn't Want a Divorce But She Must Have Support.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 19.—The domestic troubles of the Charlie Chaplins have been known to friends for several months. Chaplin is said to have stated that he will file a counter suit in the event that his wife, Mildred Harris, sues for divorce.

When seen at his club the comedian said that he had no statement to make and his attorney, Arthur Wright, would not talk for him.

The only direct statement of Mrs. Chaplin was: "I have not seen Mr. Chaplin in two weeks and he has not been living with me for several months. I am forced to conclude that he does not want to live with me. I do not want a divorce, neither do I want Mr. Chaplin's money, but I must have support."

Chaplin's only reply to this statement was, "Oh, well, such is life in the Far West."

Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin state that Chaplin has visited their client at her Oxford street home many times in an effort to persuade her to accept $25,000 and file suit in Nevada on "nominal grounds."

ELECTRICAL UNION SAID TO CONTROL CITY DEPARTMENT

Discharged City Inspector Makes Charge in Suit Against Public Utilities Officials for $10,000.

A suit for $10,000 damages was filed yesterday by H. M. Matthews, formerly chief electrical inspector in the employ of the city, against Director of Public Utilities James A. Hooke and J. L. Rilliet, 3829 Sullivan avenue, chief engineer in Hooke's department, alleging that the plaintiff was wrongfully discharged by the defendants on March 10.

Matthews charges that his dismissal was brought about by Local Union No. 1, Independent Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, which, he alleges, long has controlled the two defendants in their policy toward city employes, despite the fact that they took an oath that "they would be influenced only by consideration of fitness in the discharge or supervising of an employe."

The petition refers to an ordinance providing that no salaried employe of the city shall be discharged without first receiving 15 days' notice, unless he has been guilty of drunkenness, dishonesty or insubordination. Matthews says he was let out without the 15 days' notice, information of his dismissal coming to him in a letter on March 10, affixed to which was a reference to the ordinance already quoted. This notice, he avers, amounted to a charge that he was guilty of either drunkenness, dishonesty or insubordination, all of which was false, he alleges. He charges that he was greatly damaged by the statement.

Matthews' salary was $160 a month. He sets forth that he had passed the efficiency tests provided by the charter and was well qualified for the position.

His attorney, Albert E. Hausman, said that the Electrical Workers' Union had made a fight on Matthews because he did not join the union. He was willing to join as an electrical worker, but not as an inspector, which the union wanted him to do, said the attorney. "He felt that as an inspector he would be called upon to inspect nonunion as well as union jobs but if he were in the union as an inspector he could not have done this," said the attorney. The plaintiff began working for the city in 1910, it was stated.

$150,000 ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS PROGRAM PLANNED BY SOCIETY

$68,000 Spent Last Year in Fight Against Disease in St. Louis; $14,800 for Camp.

A proposal to spend $150,000 in anti-tuberculosis work this year was approved by the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society at its annual meeting yesterday, and will be presented to the board of directors next Tuesday. Last year the society spent $68,000 and the increase is intended to provide for an enlarged program.

The report of the treasurer showed that $14,800 was spent last year for the maintenance of the Night and Day Camp and Residential Open Air School at 9500 South Broadway, and the remainder for education, social service employment, clinics and research work. Five hundred lectures on hygiene were given in mercantile and industrial establishments, which reached 70,000 persons. More than $70,000 were realized from the Christmas seal sale and a baseball game.

The Night and Day Camp discharged 120 persons during the year, an average of 20 a day being cared for. Eighty per cent of the patients gained in weight.

Members of Victory Lodge, No. 554, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, at a meeting Wednesday night, adopted resolutions calling on members of Congress to support the Mason bill, which seeks recognition of the Irish Republic by this Government.

The resolution reads:

"Believing in the principles for which we entered the great war and desiring that freedom should not be confined to any particular races or peoples, we approve the recognition of the Irish Republic and call on our Senators and Representatives to support the Mason bill introduced for that purpose."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to President Wilson and to Missouri members of Congress.

J. C. SHANER SUES FOR DIVORCE

Attorney Alleges Wife of 15 Years Circulated False Stories.

James C. Shaner, an attorney, yesterday filed suit to divorce Mrs. Mary Shaner of 3855 West Pine boulevard, alleging that she struck him with "a small baseball bat, a poker or a strap," and on one occasion she called a police patrol to their home. He also says she circulated false stories concerning his alleged association with improper persons.

They were married 15 years ago and separated Nov. 17, last. Recently Mrs. Shaner filed suit against her husband for $3150, alleging that the amount was due her from rent collected by him from property owned by them jointly.

FALLS 2 STORIES, HITS TYPIST

Window Cleaner Sprains Foot in Plunge, and Girl Is Unharmed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, N. J., March 19.—Acting as a human cushion, Miss Helen Kugler, a young State House stenographer, probably saved the life of Augustus Miller, a window cleaner, when the latter, while at work on a second-story window of an office building on West State street, fell and landed on the young woman, who was passing. Miss Kugler, with the breath almost knocked out of her, fell sprawling into the street, and Miller landed on his feet.

The girl, apart from being badly shaken up, was unharmed, and was able to go to the State House and finish her work. Miller's left foot was sprained, and he went to a hospital.

SHE IS CELEBRATING 103RD BIRTHDAY TODAY

MRS. MIRIAM SPARKS BANISTER.

WOMAN, 103 TODAY, RECEIVES FRIENDS

Mrs. Miriam Sparks Banister Is Probably Oldest Person in St. Louis.

Mrs. Miriam Sparks Banister, who is possibly the oldest person in St. Louis, is 103 years old today. In full possession of all her faculties, except for a serious impairment of her eyesight, she is smilingly receiving the felicitations of friends at her home, 5917 Maple avenue, where she lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Mann.

When little "Grandma" Banister, as she is known to friends, was 100 years old, she celebrated with a large party at the home of a son, but since then her birthdays have been marked only by quiet, informal receptions of such friends as may drop in at her home. Last year she received 60 on her birthday.

Today she donned a black silk dress with a thread lace fichu, an heirloom from her English birthplace, with jabot and cuffs of Honiton lace. Mrs. Mann made ready the big birthday cake prepared by a caterer, with "103" outlined in candles, to be cut for callers.

Since she was 102 Mrs. Banister's sight has failed, and she can make out objects only within a short distance. "I can see daylight, though," she said with a chuckle "and I am thankful of that. But you know I bump myself sometimes when I walk about, and I have to keep my belongings just so, in order to find them when I want them."

Does Light Housework.

A year ago Mrs. Banister had one tooth left. During the last winter it began to trouble her and a dentist called to remove it. "He said it was an honor to treat such an old lady," she said, "and he would not take any money."

Her only illness is an occasional attack of neuralgia. She eats rather lightly without denying herself and does not sleep over eight hours a night. She is able to do light housework and answer the telephone and doorbell.

Her views on topics of the day have always been liberal. She has the newspapers read to her daily. Asked what she thought of prohibition, she said:

"It does not bother me either way, but I think it is a good thing to close the saloons because so many men were unable to avoid wasting their wages at the saloons and their families were made to suffer."

She knows nothing of the fox trot or the shimmy, but recalls the lanciers and the country dances of her girlhood days in England. She thinks the peace treaty should be signed at once and the league of nations made complete.

Came to St. Louis in 1864.

Mrs. Banister seldom goes away from home, usually only at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years.

"My days are too short," she said. "I sit still with my hands in my lap all day. There are many pleasant things I think about."

It was with some difficulty that her daughter, the photographer and the reporter who called induced her to sit for her picture, the first she has had taken since her one hundredth birthday. She had resolved never to pose again, but finally agreed to when given time to change her gray woolen jacket for the lace collar which she is wearing today. When the flashlight was fired she exclaimed, "you didn't make me jump."

Told that the photographer would return for another picture in 1921 she said she did not expect to be alive another year. "Nonsense," said Mrs. Mann. "She said that when I was a girl."

Mrs. Banister came to St. Louis in 1864. Besides Mrs. Mann she has two children living here, Fred A. Banister, a real estate dealer, and Edward W. Banister, a lawyer.

Most of the inventions which were to make modern life and commerce what they are had yet to appear when Mrs. Banister was born. George III of England, one time ruler of America, was still alive then.

VINDICATION BY NEGROES WORRIES GROCERY OWNER

W. A. Stork Declared by Central Civic League to Have Aided Negroes in Getting Homes.

W. A. Stork, whose ownership of one grocery store patronized by negroes and another patronized by white persons, placed him in a trying situation when the controversy arose recently over the question of negroes buying houses on Enright avenue near Newstead, has been "vindicated" by the negro faction.

Negroes charged that Stork was taking the white people's side of the dispute. Consequently trade at one store fell off. The whites cross-charges that Stork was abetting the negroes in moving into a white neighborhood, and trade at the other store fell off. Stork wanted it plainly understood that he hadn't taken either side.

The Central Civic League, an organization of negroes, made an investigation of the circumstances, and reported that Stork had not discriminated against them, but actually had helped them to get houses in the neighborhood. Now Stork is watching anxiously to see what the effect will be on his white trade.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing, rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

COMMITTEE OF 48 TO HOLD FIRST MASS MEETING TONIGHT

Duncan McDonald to Speak on Part Labor Expects to Play in Political Campaign.

The Committee of Forty-eight will conduct its first mass meeting in St. Louis at the Odeon tonight. Duncan McDonald, head of the American Labor party, will tell of the part labor expects to play in the political campaigns of this year.

Other speakers will be M. Clinton Harrison of Chicago, Middle West director of the Committee of Forty-eight; Mrs. Eugene T. Senseney, St. Louis suffragist and Red Cross worker; John A. Hanlon of the Building Trades' Council; Sheridan Carlisle, state manager of the National Peoples' League; Robert N. Owens, a St. Louis attorney, and Paul Harris Drake of Boston, now in charge of the St. Louis branch of the Committee of Forty-eight. With the exception of two or three leading speakers, a five-minute limit will be placed on the addresses. William Marion Reedy will preside. There will be music.

The subject of the addresses will be "The New Political Alignment," the theme of which will be the demand for a new political party to provide a means of expression for those who feel that they are not represented by either of the two larger parties. The aims and purposes of the Committee of Forty-eight will be explained.

This is the first of a series of mass meetings to be held by the organization and, Drake says, marks the actual opening of the campaign in Missouri against the old political parties.

FIRST OF 125 INDICTED IN COAL INQUIRY SURRENDERS

Carl J. Fletcher, Secretary of Knox Co. Association, in Custody of U. S. Marshal.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 19.—Carl J. Fletcher of Indianapolis, secretary of the Knox County Coal Operators' Association, surrendered himself to the United States Marshal here today. Fletcher is one of the 125 coal operators and miners indicted here by a special Federal grand jury last week on a charge of conspiracy to enhance the price of coal and to defraud the United States Government.

Fletcher was the first man indicted to surrender himself. Capiases have been in the hands of a printer for several days, but none has been served. It was said here that others indicted intended to give themselves up during the afternoon.

Bond of $10,000 was given by Fletcher, and he was released. Arraignment day has been fixed as May 4.

RECEIVER GETS OFFERS FOR PURCHASE OF FIRM'S LEASE

$3500 Said to have Been Proffered for Mohr Garment Concern's Hold on Quarters.

The brisk demand for downtown business locations was shown today when attorneys for the receiver of the Mohr Garment Co. obtained permission in the United States District Court for the sale of the garment company's lease on part of a floor at 1312 Washington avenue.

One of the attorneys told the Court that the five-year lease had about four years to run and the receiver had received an offer of $5500 for the leasehold.

"The assets of the company will be sold by the receiver at auction today," he said, "and from the way bids are coming in he expects to have an offer of at least $6500 for this lease by the time the sale opens."

TWO AVIATION UNITS TO HELP IN PREVENTING FOREST FIRES

Bombardment Group and 147th Squadron Designated for Patrol Service in Pacific Northwest.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 19.—The first bombardment group of the Air Service and the One Hundredth Forty-Seventh squadron of the first pursuit group, both stationed at Kelly Field, near here, yesterday were designated by Col. J. E. Fechet, Southern Department Air Service officer, to go to the Pacific Northwest this summer for service in connection with the prevention of forest fires, in case additional patrols are desired.

Col. Fechet was directed by a War Department order to designate five squadrons for such service. Another War Department order, received at department headquarters yesterday, rescinded previous orders directing the selection of five squadrons of cavalry for that purpose.

LADY ASTOR FOR SOCIALISM

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 19.—Lady Astor, M. P., yesterday made a declaration in favor of Socialism in an address before women employes of the civil service.

"I hope some day we shall all be Socialists," said Lady Astor. "It is a far better state than the present, but we are a long way from it yet. That is the tragedy of it. People haven't enough communal spirit yet to make universal Socialism possible."

New York Banks Merged.

How Many Women Keep Young Looking

"A woman may be old at 18 and young at 80," says a prominent club-woman. "Years don't matter. Didn't Ninon de L'Enclos have a proposal at 90?"

The youth of our women is more lasting than it was a generation ago, because we are better acquainted with simple physiological laws. When the first aging marks appear—wrinkles, bagginess of cheeks, neck and chin—we realize that the cause is a loosening of the skin and softening of the tissue underneath. We know the cause must be removed. Instead of laying on pastes we send to the drug store for an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half-pint of witch hazel, mix them and bathe face, neck and hands in the solution. We know this tightens the skin, solidifies the tissue, induces a healthy circulation. We treat causes rather than effects. We use reason—and stay young.

New Chemical Kills Bed Bugs P. D. Q.

The new golden-colored chemical, Pesky Devils' Quietus (P. D. Q.) can now be had at any drug store, as arrangements have been made whereby the retailer can get it from his wholesaler.

The new chemical, P. D. Q., is very powerful. A couple of ounces can be procured for a few cents, and you'll have enough to kill a million bed bugs if you could get that many together. P. D. Q. does not rot or burn the springs or clothing. It leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

P. D. Q. if properly used, rids the house entirely of the bed bugs, ants, roaches and fleas. Safe to use to rid your pet dog of fleas.

A patent spout free in every package of P. D. Q. enabling you to get the pesky insects in the hard-to-get-at places. Sold by Johnson Bros., Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson and other leading druggists.

Receiver for Chicago Bus Line.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Federal Judge Landis yesterday appointed the Central Trust Co. as receiver for the Chicago Motor Bus Co., following the filing of a bill of complaint by five New York holders of $130,000 in bonds. Counsel said the bonds were due in January, 1920, and were not taken up.

SIX ENEMY ALIENS FOREVER BARRED FROM CITIZENSHIP

Thirty-two Others, Denied Naturalization Last Week, Permitted to Renew Applications.

Six German, Austrian and Hungarian enemy aliens today were forever barred from becoming citizens of the United States by Judge Faris in Federal Court.

They were among 38 aliens whose applications for citizenship were last week denied by Judge Faris. The Judge today entered orders in 32 of the cases without prejudice, which permits them to renew their applications. In the remaining six cases his orders were with prejudice as follows:

Oswald Matter—Disloyalty during the war by his behavior, conduct and utterances, and because he is not attached to the principles of the Constitution.

Reinhold Friedrich Heye—Similar charge.

Oscar Scharer—Guilty of disloyalty in refusing to become a citizen while in military service, evading foreign service and discharge from the army because he was an enemy alien.

Erik von Fursch—Statements that he would not fight against Germany.

Oscar A. F. Tekniepe—Evaded military service and said that he would fight for Germany if opportunity was given.

Josef Stutz—One of the organizers of the St. Louis Soviet and a member of the Communist party, contradictory to his statements that he did not believe in anarchy.

CASHIER ARRAIGNED ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

E. L. Wieland, Short $10,000, Pleads Not Guilty When Bondsman Tells Him to Do So.

Erwin L. Wieland, 23 years old of 6212 Gravois avenue, former bookkeeper and cashier for the Skinner & Kennedy Stationery Co., appeared in the Court of Criminal Correction this morning for arraignment on an information charging him with embezzlement from the stationery firm. The amount of the embezzlement is said to exceed $10,000.

When he was first asked whether he pleaded guilty or not guilty, Wieland made no reply. The question was repeated, and he turned to his bondsman, Ferd Warner, with the question, "What do I do?" Warner replied that he should plead not guilty, and he did so.

Warner signed his bond, the amount of which was fixed by Judge Krueger at $5000. The preliminary hearing will be in the same court next Wednesday.

HOUSE APPROVES PEACE ARMY OF 316,800 OFFICERS AND MEN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A peace time army of 299,000 enlisted men and 17,800 officers was approved by the House in passing yesterday the army reorganization bill by a vote of 246 to 92.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

No material changes in the military system outlined by the National Defense Act of 1916 are provided by the new bill. The numerous changes being in details. The principle of flexibility or organization, adopted during the war, is carried into the permanent establishment, tactical organization being left to presidential regulations.

The combat force is fixed by the bill at 250,000 men and includes the infantry, of which the tank corps is a part, the cavalry, artillery and aviation, the last as a separate corps as is the chemical warfare service. National Guard provisions are changed to authorize Federal recognition of companies having 50 recruits. The Chief of Militia Bureau of the War Department, now a regular officer, would be appointed from the National Guard under the bill.

Long Distance Telephone Calls

TOLL calls vary greatly in character and in the cost to the telephone company of furnishing service. The present toll schedule classifies toll calls and charges to meet the requirements of users at a cost commensurate with the service rendered. The classifications are:

STATION TO STATION CALLS
Where the calling party, when placing his call, specifies a called telephone only, or anyone at a place of business or residence. Rates for this service are classified into Day, Evening and Night rates. The evening rate is effective from 8:30 P. M. to 12:00 midnight. The night rate is effective from 12:00 to 4:30 A. M. Because the telephone company is not required to locate a particular person the use of its facilities is reduced to a minimum; hence, the service is quicker and can be given at a lower rate.

PERSON TO PERSON CALLS
Where the calling party in placing his call specifies a particular person at a specified telephone, place of business or residence.

APPOINTMENT CALLS
When the calling party in placing his call specifies a particular person at a telephone, place of business or residence and further specifies that he will talk at a stated time only.

MESSENGER CALLS
Where the calling party in placing his call specifies a particular person to come to a telephone and it is necessary in order to complete the call, for the telephone company to arrange for and send a messenger to notify the called party to come to a telephone.

In subsequent announcements, we will explain how you may save money on toll calls by selecting the service most adaptable to your needs.

LA TRASSE AGAIN CHECKED IN AT LANSING

Train Robber, Who Escaped Five Years Ago, Says He Fought in Foreign Legion.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 19.—William La Trasse, train bandit who escaped from the Kansas State prison at Lansing, near here, Nov. 12, 1915, again is confined in a cell at that institution. He was "checked in" today and began serving the remainder of a 10-to-21-yeaer sentence for holding up a Missouri Pacific passenger train between Kansas City and Leavenworth on Christmas night, 1910.

La Trasse was arrested at Wichita by an agent of an automobile theft insurance company, in connection with automobile thefts. Although armed, he offered no resistance to the agent, who was unarmed. He gave his name as Charles Wilson, but later was identified as La Trasse by S. W. Zickafoose, Chief of Police of Wichita, and former Chief of Detectives in Kansas City.

Killed Saloon Keeper.

The crime for which La Trasse was serving when he escaped was the holdup of a train between Kansas City and Leavenworth, Christmas night, 1910. He accomplished the robbery single handed, wounding one of the passengers. He was captured in Chicago, Feb. 9, 1911, after he had killed a saloon keeper and was returned to Kansas City, Kan., for trial.

After conviction, pending hearing on his motion for a new trial, La Trasse and five other prisoners escaped from the Kansas City (Kas.) jail after holding the guards at bay with wooden revolvers fashioned by La Trasse. He was the only one of the men not recaptured.

In 1913, while visiting at the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester, Henry Zimmer, then Chief of Police of Kansas City, Kan., identified as La Trasse an inmate of that penitentiary serving a sentence for burglary. La Trasse was extradited and returned to Lansing to serve his sentence there.

Escapes From Lansing.

With the aid of ropes made of binding twine and sheets La Trasse and four fellow prisoners at Lansing, escaped by prying their way through the roof, after having released themselves from separate cells. In this, prison officials declared they had had help from both inside and outside the prison.

La Trasse was next heard of when he, in company with a woman, on Jan. 21, 1916, held up the tourist agency of Thomas A. Cook & Son in Chicago, wounded the cashier, seized $900 and escaped in a taxicab after killing a policeman.

Fought in Foreign Legion.

A story of three years' fighting in France, under an assumed name, with the Foreign Legion, and of his participation in eight large battles was told by La Trasse.

After his escape from Lansing, he said, he traveled to Newport News, Va., where he shipped as a muleteer on a boat bound for France. Landing at Brest, he enlisted in the Foreign Legion, he said, and fought beside men of many nationalities. Finally, he asserted, he was wounded and sent to a hospital for many months, returning to America in May, 1919.

"I am done with it all," he said. "There is nothing to it, and from now on nobody will be troubled with Bill La Trasse. When I have finished my sentence I am going to settle down and take care of my mother."

Ancient Degree for Warburg.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The ancient Jewish degree, known as "Haber" or "chover," dating back to Talmudic times, yesterday was conferred on Felix M. Warburg, New York banker, on the occasion of his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The degree, it was said, has never before been conferred in America, the previous recipient being Sir Moses Montefiore, for saving the Jewish population of Damascus in 1848.

J. W. DAVIS ON PRESIDENCY

Ambassador in Cablegram Speaks of Call No Man Should Refuse.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 19.—John W. Davis, American Ambassador to England, declared in a cablegram received here yesterday by C. L. Shaver, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, that, while he did not seek the presidential nomination, he considered that "when an American for that office represents the deliberate wish of one's party it constituted a call to duty that no man should refuse."

EDITOR WHO, UNARMED, COWED NOTORIOUS TEXAS BANDIT, DIES

Col. W. P. Gaines Got Threat From Ben Thompson, Then Waited in Office When Outlaw Went to Kill Him.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Col. William Pendleton Gaines, owner of the Austin (Tex.) Statesman, who became known from one end of the Lone Star State to another through victory achieved over Ben Thompson, notorious bandit, died at his home last night of heart disease.

In the days when Austin was only a young city and bandit raids were so numerous that the local authorities were unable to cope with them, Col. Gaines, through the columns of his newspaper, attacked the city officials for their ineffectiveness.

The editorials were answered by Thompson himself. After having warned Col. Gaines that he intended to kill him and blow up his plant, the bandit, accompanied by his followers, stalked into the office on the day specified and found the Colonel waiting for him unarmed.

At this display of nerve, Thompson slipped his pistol back into its holster and, after chatting with the editor, shook hands and parted with this tribute:

"You're the bravest man I ever met."

After that Austin was no longer troubled by bandits.

Col. Gaines was born in Richmond, Tex., in 1852. He was graduated from Lafayette College at 20, and after practicing law in his native State, turned to the real estate field and later to journalism. He established the Statesman when Austin was being developed and contributed to many newspapers and periodicals. He aided in establishing local governments in many new cities, and won his military title in the Texas National Guard. He came to this city several years ago.

Besides his widow, he leaves a son, William Pendleton Gaines Jr., who last year, at the age of 18, made his first appearance on the stage. Funeral services will be held in Austin.

HUNGARIAN PEACE ENVOY SAYS TREATY IS SENTENCE OF DEATH

Count Apponyi Declares Country Is Stripped of Natural Resources and Two-Thirds of Population.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 3.—The Hungarian peace treaty is a "sentence of death," Count Albert Apponyi, head of the Hungarian Peace Commission declares in the first of two articles he has given to the Associated Press.

The decision of the allies was based on one-sided information and Hungary never got a chance to present "the facts of her own problems from her own point of view," he says.

Analyzing the treaty he declares that it takes away from Hungary two-thirds of her territory and population and gives to what is left defenseless frontiers, everywhere open to hostile invasion. She is deprived, he says, of almost all woodland, pasture ground, iron ore, oil, gas, waterpower, and the greater part of her manufacturing establishments and best coal mines.

On the "impoverished" bit remaining, he adds, the allies have laid to a large extent "the burden of the national debt contracted by the whole country before its mutilation and the further burdens of 'reparations.'"

Hungary was opposed to the war and Count Tisza, her Prime Minister, objected to the ultimatum to Serbia, but she was dragged in by her allies, he says in conclusion.

ONLY THREE TOYS FOR 338 ORPHANS OF WAR VETERANS

Children of Illinois Institution Punished for Blowing Bubbles—Five-Year-Old Twins Scrub Floors.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Blowing soap bubbles is an offense in the Illinois State Home for Soldiers' orphans, where 338 children of war veterans are housed.

Miss Annie Hinrichsen, secretary of the Department of Public Welfare, found two small boys kneeling on a crack for punishment, on a visit to the home yesterday.

"What did you do?" she asked.

"Blew soap bubbles," they replied.

Miss Hinrichsen reported to her chief, Charles H. Thorne, that the home had only three toys; that the play room for sick children was a cement "cell" in the basement, devoid of all furniture; that children suffering from contagious diseases slept in the same beds with those who were well, three to a bed; and that sick children, including 5-year-old twins, were found scrubbing the cement floors.

The hospital records show twice as many contagious disease cases each year as there are inmates in the home.

BRANCH OF AMERICAN TRAVEL ASSOCIATION TO OPEN HERE

A St. Louis branch of the American Travel Development Association will be opened by the St. Louis Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau, which has changed its official title by the addition of the word "tourists."

A new information office at Union Station, in direct charge of the Convention Bureau, is part of the plan. This office would give information to the traveling public as to accommodations and points of interest in and near St. Louis. Arrangements will be made for giving similar information to automobile travelers, probably by distribution of printed matter on the bridges.

This expansion of the convention bureau's work resulted from the attendance of Secretary Hatfield, of the convention bureau, at the recent convention of the American Travel Development Association, in Denver. St. Louis was chosen as the place for the next convention. The primary purpose of the Travel Development Association, it is announced, is "to advertise America to its people."

The Old-Fashioned Way to Stop a Cold

Mother knew how to break up a cold—here's mother's old remedy in a newer and better form, TURPO. It takes the place of old-fashioned turpentine and lard. No animal fats—a clean mineral base instead. Turpentine to break the congestion, camphor to heal, menthol to cool and soothe. Rub Turpo on, and rub it IN. It drives the cold out of throat and chest; and a little in the nostrils opens up the air passages. Use Turpo also for catarrh; for aches and pains; for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, and after shaving. Buy Turpo of your druggist. 30c, 60c, $1.50.

CREW OF H-1 LEAPED INTO SEA IN THE DARK

Story of Grounding of U. S. Submarine Told by Survivors.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 19.—Another tale of bravery was added to the annals of the American Navy when the survivors of the crew of the submarine H-1 arrived here yesterday aboard the motorship Mazatlan.

The H-1 went ashore off the coast of Lower California in Magdalena Bay Thursday night, March 11. The commanding officer, Lieutenant-Commander James R. Webb, and three enlisted men lost their lives in attempting to leave the vessel. The survivors reported that the bodies of two, H. S. Delamarine, seaman, and Harry W. Gilles, seaman second class, were washed to the beach later and were buried. Commander Webb's body and that of Seaman Joseph Kauffman had not been recovered when the Mazatlan left.

Grounded in Heavy Sea.

Members of the crew said that the H-1 and its sister submarine, the H-2, were sailing northward, the H-1 in the lead, when the H-1 grounded in a heavy sea. The H-2 was about 400 yards behind and her lookout saw that the H-1 was in trouble so he promptly caused the H-2 to change course and avoid a like fate.

Submarines of the type of the H-1 carry no small boats. Therefore, the H-2 could give no aid and the H-1 crew had to rely on their own ability as swimmers to reach the shore of Rodondo Point. The vessel was afloat. The conning tower was opened and the crew ordered out. The men, swimming alone or aiding each other, all made the shore with the exception of the three enlisted men, who were missing when a check was made ashore.

Commander Webb was washed overboard from the conning tower, where he was directing the movements of the crew. The night was so dark that efforts to aid him were unavailing.

Submarine Struck Reef.

The crew of the Mazatlan said they were quoting survivors of the submarine. The latter who were taken to the submarine base at San Pedro, when they left the Mazatlan, had previously told their rescuers of how the H-1 was presumably trying to enter Magdalena when it struck a reef on Santa Margarita Island, 10 miles south.

The Island was rescribed as consisting of two high points, about five miles apart and connected by a reef which lay only a few feet under water. Thus, in the dark of 1 o'clock last Friday morning, with heavy seas running it was mistaken for the entrance to Magdalena Bay.

SOLDIERS WARNED OF LAWYERS

Red Cross Will Help Claimants to Avoid Profiteers.

The St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross yesterday issued a warning against profiteering lawyers who are charging exorbitant fees for collecting claims of former soldiers against the Government, the charges in some cases running to $250.

It was stated that the Home Service Section of the Red Cross, 1002 Equitable Building, will direct claimants to responsible lawyers whose fees will not be exorbitant. In claims for less than $300 there is no charge for legal advice.

FORMER CASHIER SUES HOTEL

Suit for $50,000 was filed yesterday by Miss Marie Bongner, 32 years old, of 2809 Rauschenbach avenue, a former cashier at the Hotel Statler, against the hotel and the Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland, as well as several individuals connected with the companies, for alleged malicious prosecution.

The suit charges that the plaintiff suffered greatly because of her prosecution on a charge of stealing $1000 of the funds of the hotel while she was serving as cashier there. She was acquitted.

TRAFFIC LEAGUE FOR CONTINUING EXPRESS COMBINE

Majority of Delegates to National Industrial Meeting Think Present Plan of Operation Is the Best.

The National Industrial Traffic League, which concludes today its sessions at the Planters Hotel, adopted the report of the Committee on Export and Import Traffic, recommending the continuance of the present plan of making lower rates on export traffic than on domestic traffic when such rates are necessary to enable industries in the United States to compete in foreign markets. A recommendation of the same committee that some action be taken in regard to unification of terms used in export traffic was adopted.

The recommendation of the Committee on Express that the league oppose the continuance of the present consolidation of all express companies into one unit, the American Railway Express, was rejected yesterday afternoon by a large majority.

H. C. Barlow, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, led the successful fight against the adoption of the report, urging that some of the express companies merged would never again enter the business and that if a dissolution were ordered there might be only one company which would continue business.

Substitute Report Adopted.

After a debate lasting the greater part of the afternoon the league adopted a substitute report recommending that a committee be appointed to go before the Interstate Commerce Commission and ask that the present consolidation of express companies be continued and that the spirit of fairness and competition be maintained by a careful supervision of rates under the direction of the Commission.

The report of the committee appointed to investigate seasonal rates was adopted, recommending that the Interstate Commerce Commission put into effect seasonal coal rates to encourage the mining and distribution of coal in summer months.

A resolution was adopted at the morning session today requesting that the railroads be divided into three groups, Eastern, Western and Southern, in the making of freight rate adjustments.

300 Delegates Present.

The league will conclude its convention this afternoon with an automobile tour of the city, during which the 300 delegates now present will be taken to the larger industrial plants and other points of interest.

At the banquet last night in the Planters Hotel, C. W. Reid of Washington, D. C., manager of the Transportation Bureau of the Federal Highway Council, declared that if the freight cars of the country could add six miles a day to their present mileage it would be equivalent to adding 600,000 miles to transportation service.

CARE IN WHOOPING COUGH CASES URGED

Measles and "Growing Pains" Also Dangerous, Physician Says in Address to Mothers.

"Guard your children against contact with whooping cough at any cost," warned Dr. Adrien S. Bleyer, speaking on infectious disease before a group of mothers assembled at the Community School yesterday afternoon. "Whooping cough has the deadliest record of all contagious diseases among very young children, claiming probably 25 per cent of its victims under 1 year of age," he added. "Measles, also, though more lightly regarded, has as high a death rate as scarlet fever, and is more to be guarded against because it is so tremendously contagious, being communicable before diagnosis is established." "A cat scratch is more to be feared than a dog bite as a cause of hydrophobia," was another statement, "the virus of a cat being the more active.

"One of the most important symptoms to be watched for in children is 'growing pains.' They may indicate rheumatic infection which will develop heart trouble later on.

Dr. Bleyer's address on infectious diseases was one of a series being given by physicians at the same place, De Mun avenue, near Wydown boulevard, on Thursday afternoons. Next Thursday Dr. John Green will speak on care of the eyes and Dr. Bland W. Pippen on care of the teeth.

Diseases Classified.

Dr. Bleyer separated infectious diseases into two classes, those preventable and those whose prevention has not been entirely mastered by science. In the first group were listed malaria, yellow fever, bubonic plague, typhus, typhoid, septic sore throat, cholera, dysentery, lockjaw, hydrophobia, smallpox, hookworm, diphtheria, Rocky Mountain fever, preventable blindness and others less familiar.

"The first six being carried by parasites or caused by infected milk are eradicable through sanitation and the elimination of the causes. Malaria," he said, "is not a question of quinine but of getting rid of mosquitoes." Typhoid, though it exists plantifully in this country, more plentifully than in Europe, he said, can be controlled by proper supervision of the milk supply. It is a wise precaution to give children certified milk. Septic sore throat is caused by infected udders of the cow. Hydrophobia has been mastered by the Pasteur treatment.

Contrary to popular habit, an animal suspected of rabies should not be killed at once but restrained and watched for symptoms before Pasteur treatment is administered to its victim, Dr. Bleyer said. Smallpox has been made preventable by vaccination, which should be repeated as after five years 50 per cent of sufferers are again susceptible.

Blindness Caused by Neglect.

"Probably one-third of the blind in our asylums are there because of neglect by physicians at their birth, he stated.

"Thanks to anti-toxin, diphtheria is preventable, mortality from this disease having been reduced 70 per cent." There is a test by which susceptibility to this disease may be determined, and it is wise to give anti-toxin as a preventive. Care, however, is required in the technique of this work.

In the list of infectious diseases, whose cause and control are still more or less skeptical, Dr. Bleyer mentioned pneumonia, whooping cough, influenza, infantile paralysis, meningitis, mumps, scarlet fever, measles, rheumatic fever.

Whooping cough, as has been said, Dr. Bleyer regards very seriously. "There is a vaccine which is useful when given as preventive, but not as a cure.

"A mild case of scarlet fever," he said, "may produce in another child an infection which will cause death in one or two days. Therefore, never fail to isolate a child with scarlet rash. In measles three precautions are especially to be observed, namely complications of eyes, mouth and throat. A child with a light case of measles should never be allowed to be up and about.

Influenza and Pneumonia.

Recent epidemics of influenza prove that much is yet to be learned about this disease. A most important observation is that it is communicable at short range to direct exposure and to probably healthy carriers. A fundamental precaution, therefore, is to avoid crowds when it is prevalent.

"Mumps occasionally is fatal and sometimes causes meningitis, deafness and other serious consequences. Very little progress has been made in the prevention of pneumonia, it being just as prevalent and just about as likely to be fatal as it has for thousands of years. Next to tuberculosis it is the greatest scourge in this latitude. Sudden shock, excessive fatigue are causes, also the old-fashioned idea that getting chilled and remaining damp will cause pneumonia, is correct.

Carriers of Contagion.

"Too much attention cannot be paid to rheumatic infections in children. They may produce heart disorders later in life. Watch for so-called growing pains as symptoms. They are a germ infection and the method of prevention is to minimize the portals of entry, chief among which are the tonsils, adenoids, defective teeth. For this reason baby teeth should not be neglected more than the second growth."

An important change of front has taken place quite recently, said the doctor, with regard to what agencies carry contagion. "There was a time when it was thought infections were transferable long distances through the air. And we used to think articles in the sickroom exposed to contact with the patient were probable carriers. But fumigation and quarantine measures have not always proved infallible. We are now convinced that it is the fingers of attendants that most often carry infections and that no one thing is more important than the thorough washing with soap and water of the hands of anyone who has been in contact with contagion."

New Motion in Pierce Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Sam W. Fordyce of St. Louis, attorney for T. Clay Pierce in his suit against the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis for $700,000, today filed in the Supreme Court a motion to have the case transferred to the court in banc. Division No. 2 of the court, which decided the case against Pierce, overruled a similar motion the other day at the same time that it denied Pierce's motion for a rehearing.

"Reduce Your Weight a Pound a Day"

"Not Impossible," Says a Physician in a Recent Interview.

Not enough oxygen in the system and poor assimilation are generally the causes of superfluous flesh. Too little of the food you eat is being made into good, hard tissue, and too much into little globules of fat. This causes an excess of fat, sometimes all over the body or around the hips, over the bust or under the chin only.

One of the best methods for treating excess fat that requires no drastic dieting, violent exercising or cumbersome appliance is to breathe deeply and to take a few grains of phy-no-la after each meal and at bedtime. Remarkably quick results are generally secured in this way and if you follow these simple directions, even a few days' use should show you what a good method this is. As this excess fat, which is very weakening, disappears, you should gain strength rapidly and your skin should take on a healthy tone and firmness with no flabbiness or sagging. This method of reducing your weight is so easy and pleasant that not even your most intimate friends need know of it. You can get the genuine phy-no-la at small cost at Enderle Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., E. A. Medler, Judge & Dolph or Keiffer Drug Co.

During 1919 the Post-Dispatch printed 36,671 Houses, Flats, etc., For Rent ads—13,385 more than the FOUR other St. Louis Newspapers combined.

85 SEPARATE VERDICTS ARE POSSIBLE IN NEWBERRY CASE

Jury Begins Deliberating in Michigan Election Conspiracy Trial Ahead of Time.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19.—The Newberry elections conspiracy trial jurors went to work ahead of time today. They reached the Federal building nearly half an hour ahead of schedule, and settled down to their long grind of settling the individual cases of 85 defendants.

The case was passed to the jurors late yesterday, and an hour later they were excused for the night by Judge Clarence W. Sessions.

Owing to the large number of defendants and various verdicts that might be returned, there was much speculation as to the amount of time the jurors might require to render their decision.

Of the six counts in the indictment, only two remained—the first, charging criminal conspiracy to procure the nomination and election of Newberry in violation of State and Federal election laws, and the sixth, charging use of the mails to defraud.

In instructing the jury, Judge Sessions said verdicts of guilty or not guilty on either or both of the counts might be brought in as to all the defendants, but that a return on each of the defendants would be necessary if the verdict differed as to individuals.

SAYS WIFE THREW WOOD AT HIM

Man Obtaining Divorce and Custody of Seven Children.

Lawrence Monroe Reed, a carpenter, 1105A North Vandeventer avenue, obtained a divorce by default from Mrs. Alice Christine Reed, in the Circuit Court today and the custody of seven minor children, ranging in age from four to 15 years.

Reed alleged that his wife absented herself from home frequently and neglected him and the children, and when angry would hurl pieces of wood or the stove-lifter at him. Two of the children are with Reed, two are with the mother, and three are at Father Dunn's Home.

COUNTESS TOLSTOY A REFUGEE

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—Countess Marie Tolstoy, niece of the famous Russian author and philosopher, who recently arrived here as a refugee from Odessa, applied Wednesday to the American Red Cross for relief.

The Countess, who speaks perfect English, was at once placed on the staff of the Red Cross, the headquarters of which are on the Island of Proti, in the Prinkipo group, and will act as an interpreter.

Acquittal in Income Tax Case.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury in the Federal District Court here today in the case of Jay A. Weber, secretary of the Pictorial Review Co., who was charged with attempting to bribe an agent of the Internal Revenue Department to falsify the income tax return of the corporation.

The After Effects of Pneumonia

This is No. 2 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Pneumonia attacks the air cells of the lungs. An inflammation is set up and matter is thrown off which causes the air cells to solidify, thus preventing the natural flow of blood thru the lungs. This "backing up" of the blood causes the heart to pump harder, just as stepping on a hose increases the water pressure, which is the reason why, during this disease, the physician watches the overburdened heart so carefully.

After recovery the lungs are filled with a mass of wreckage—the debris of the battle—which must be gotten rid of by a process known as resolution. Frequently, inflamed spots remain, congestion persists, cough hangs on, and the least exposure brings on a cold that is hard to get rid of. If neglected, such damaged air passages may easily develop serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should always continue under a physician's care and frequent examinations should be made to see that nature is properly continuing the rebuilding process.

Nightly applications of Vick's VapoRub will aid nature in this work. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 232 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

A Change of Eyeglasses

There is no reason why you should try to get along with only one pair of Eyeglasses. You ought to have a pair of comfortable tortoise shell spectacles at home for evening reading. A change of glasses, like a change of anything else, helps in relaxation.

A Man to Man Policy That Wins

THE Standard Oil Company was a pioneer in the petroleum industry. From the day of its organization to the present moment the Company has put forth every effort to make and sell goods of the highest quality and always has been satisfied to work on a small profit. It has made money for its 4711 stockholders by reason of the volume of business done.

In its dealings with the men and women who make up its working organization, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has maintained a policy of fairness and liberality which has held its men and inspired them with the high ideals of service which have been the key to its prosperity.

Today the 22,000 employees are working as one man to increase production and decrease the cost of manufacture and distribution, for they know that their every effort is appreciated in terms which are substantial.

The working and living conditions of the men and women employed by the Company always have been matters of major interest to those in authority. Under the plan now in process of organization, the employees will be given an ever-increasing voice in the management of their affairs.

The spirit of fairness which animates both the Company and its employees, in their relations with one another, has again proved that all that is needed to increase production and insure industrial peace is to make it possible for the employer and employee to sit down and discuss all phases of their problems man to man.

CUMMINGS ASSAILS REPUBLICAN CONGRESS

Says in Louisville Speech $2,000,000 Was Wasted on Smelling Committees.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 19.—Wasteful expenditure of $2,000,000 for smelling committees was charged against the Republican majority in Congress by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in an address here last night at a dinner attended by Democratic leaders of Kentucky.

The committees, Chairman Cummings said, were appointed to ascertain whether there had been any graft in the conduct of the world war, but instead "demonstrated that this was the cleanest war ever fought in the history of civilization."

"The finger of scorn does not point to one single Democratic official in all of broad America," added Cummings. "I want to remind you that it does not lie in the mouths of those who conducted the Spanish-American War to indulge in the luxury of criticism. What is there in this war to compare with the typhoid-infested camps of the war of 1898; what is there in this war to compare to the paper-sole shoe controversy of 1898, and what is there in this war to compare to the embalmed-beef scandal of the Spanish-American War?

Assails Congress.

"We have fought a great war for a great cause and we have had a leadership which has carried America to greater heights of glory and power and honor and splendor than she has ever known before in her entire history.

"The Republicans have now been in control of the Senate and House for eight months," the chairman continued. "They went in under false pretenses. They outlined an elaborate program of reconstruction that looked very well in the newspapers. They have not only delayed and indefinitely postponed the peace of the world, interfered with American commerce and brought the rate of exchange tumbling down to a point hitherto unknown, but aside from railroad legislation of doubtful value, they have not passed one single constructive act.

"Had a Democratic Congress been elected, or a Congress in sympathy with the President, the treaty of peace would long ago have been ratified. Innumerable avenues of trade and commerce would have been open to American enterprise and halted industry would have taken on new and hopeful life."

Republican Committee.

Cummings characterized the Republican Platform Committee as a "most unusual conglomeration of political misfits."

"On that committee of 171," he asserted, "they have reactionaries and progressives, they have Taftites and Rooseveltians, they have economists and appropriationists, they have reservationists of all kinds, mild reservationists and wild reservationists; they have bitter-enders, they have capitalists and pacifists and militarists and former chairmen of the Republican National Committee and 17 women, all to go on a voyage of discovery for the purpose of ascertaining what Republican principles are."

Referring to the presence of a number of women at the dinner, Cummings said the Democratic party "possessed an appeal to the women of America because of the social aspects of the program which has been outlined by its great leader and which has been carried to such a successful culmination."

STOCKS DIVIDEND DECISION STILL UNDER CONSIDERATION

House Ways and Means Committee Discusses Plans for Meeting Loss in Revenue.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Discussion of methods to regain Government losses resulting from the decision of the Supreme Court that stocks dividends are not taxable continued today before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Joseph S. McCoy, Government actuary, who appeared before the committee yesterday, was to be recalled to explain more fully the effect of the court decision on Government revenues. The committee is divided over the necessity for additional legislation to recoup the losses, both Republicans and Democrats holding that the eventual loss in revenue will not exceed $35,000,000.

Treasury officials, however, contend that the need for legislation is not so much to compensate for actual losses, but to prevent stockholders in personal service corporations and stock dividends from escaping taxes.

Several plans to replace the revenue lost under the court decision have been submitted to the committee, while other plans changing the present tax laws are to be discussed. One of these, proposed by Chairman Fordney, provides for the repeal of the $2000 exemption and placing of a straight tax on all incomes and profits.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Armenian Question.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The time for the United States to act in the Armenian question is now. For our nation to sit with folded hands while she watches inertly the destruction of an innocent, helpless and Christian nation, Turks, is nothing short of criminal.

No nation in the world is so well fitted to act in this matter as is our nation; we should do it, fearing no consequences.

The United States has won, and deservedly so, in all her struggles. Why? For one reason alone, and that is because she has always fought on the side of right.

Our forefathers came and established our country through much tribulation, because of the righteous cause—the desire to follow the teachings of the great Nazarene in peace.

In a far-off land a little nation is being martyred because it will not renounce Christianity for Mohammedanism.

People read with great emotion of the martyrs who gave their lives for the cause of Christianity in those terrible years after Christ's ascension. But those were conveniently far-off times.

Today our nation, though sympathetic has, like Pilate, washed its hands, and sits idly watching one of the most terrible martyrdoms in all history.

Let us arounse ourselves! The Senate is our mouthpiece, and if the Senate is idle on this question it is probably because its body, the people, are asleep. Let us awake and send up such a chorus of protest that it will shake our leaders into action.

It is in such a crisis as this that a nation stands or falls; for woe to the nation's right to prosperity and success when it falls in "a square deal" to its fellow nation. One sees this clearly in the case of an individual, and the same is true of a nation. If it fails, sooner or later it must pay, and pay "to the uttermost farthing."

No Quarter.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your cartoon of the "Stern old man" who gave up the last ounce of his strength to his country fighting for the principles embodied in the perfect instrument of international politics which he gave to the world, and in defense of which he gathered an army of millions—this cartoon is good. And the old man is right. Between the mediocre politician and the glorified leader there can be no compromise. No quarter, by God! No quarter!

FRANK H. CROSS.

Bonds for Him.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

During the past week you printed an article in regard to action to be taken by the Complaint Board, and some kind of an attorney advising tenants not to pay advanced rents. Now, the best way to reduce rents is to build more houses, and certainly actions advised as stated will not encourage anyone to build any. It was my intention to erect some apartments in St. Louis, but I will use my money to buy Government bonds, until such time as city officials recognize that advice of the nature given is closely allied to Bolshevism.

Muzzling Dogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reply to party writing about muzzling dogs, will say I have a letter from the Health Commissioner's office which states plainly if a dog has a license and is on a leash he does not have to be muzzled. A muzzle is required only on a dog that is allowed to run at large.

A DOG LOVER.

One Tenant's Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mayor Kiel may be right in terming as Bolshevism the proposal to clog the courts in order to prevent rapacious landlords from robbing their tenants. But the Mayor might becomingly show an interest now and then in the welfare of the many. Surely he should be as greatly concerned for the rent payers of St. Louis as for the rent collectors, both as a man and as a politician. He has not displayed any such concern.

That rents have been advanced unreasonably in St. Louis cannot be denied. True, Mr. Farish, president of the Real Estate Exchange, says there are no profitteering landlords in St. Louis, but Mr. Farish probably is unacquainted with facts. With the Mayor of the city rushing to their defense and with the head of the Real Estate Exchange giving them a clean bill, it is not to be wondered at that landlords continue to raise rents.

I imagine my own case is typical. My rent has been increased 70 per cent in the last 14 months. My limit has been reached. I cannot pay another advance. If the advance is made I shall fight it in the courts, and I hope Mr. Farish will drop in at the trial. If he does, he will see a profiteering landlord.

RENT PAYER.

THE FATEFUL DECISION.

The adoption by the Senate of a new reservation favoring self-determination for Ireland and her admission to the League of Nations is significant. It proves the growing sympathy for the cause of Irish freedom and emphasizes the menace to the cordial relations of Great Britain and America in British faithlessness and delay in dealing with the Irish question. In a recent article the Post-Dispatch warned England that Irish sentiment in this country was a smoldering flame which might bring unpleasant consequences.

With the question of ratification approaching the final stage of salvation or destruction of the treaty, fresh and strong influences in favor of ratifying with the adopted reservations—the course advocated by the Post-Dispatch—have come into action. Herbert Hoover, whose knowledge and understanding of European conditions and whose sound judgment on the problems confronting the world are generally admitted, unqualifiedly urges acceptance of the reservations, which are the best terms obtainable from the Republican opposition in control of the Senate. He regards the peace covenant as a whole—"not a document," but "an organization of the moral sense of the civilized states." He urges its ratification on account of the great body of the covenant making for justice and peace, which are unimpaired by the adopted reservations and which offer a sound working basis for an effective League.

The Democratic Senators who have labored to save the treaty from destruction by amendment have practically accomplished their object. They have fought reservations to the irreducible minimum against the evident intent to destroy. They have saved the great body of the covenant, all those provisions for discussion and arbitration and for the co-operation of nations for human welfare. If they reject the whole treaty, on account of the reservations on a few articles which the Senate majority persisted in adding to it, they will commit a stupendous blunder—a blunder the disastrous effect of which upon world peace and civilization cannot be measured, and a blunder for their party. They will put the party in a false and untenable position. They will disappoint the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the people.

On the other hand, if they vote to ratify the treaty Mr. Wilson must decide the fateful question of accepting or rejecting the whole treaty on account of a few reservations. He must decide in his own conscience and in view of the world situation and the welfare of mankind, whether or not he is justified in destroying all the work of the peace conference, the crowning work of his life and the fruits of the war.

RECKLESSLY OPERATED BABY CARRIAGES.

The circumstances surrounding a collision in the West End between a high-powered automobile and a baby carriage containing a 4-months-old infant were such that the case was adjudicated by the imposition of a fine on the driver of the auto. But it directs attention to a traffic danger against which present precautions are lamentably inadequate.

We know as yet of no instances in which occupants of automobiles have been seriously and permanently injured when the motor vehicles have been run into, perhaps overturned and demolished, by baby carriages recklessly piloted across street intersections by inattentive custodians. But such instances may be recorded any moment. Aren't most of our thoroughfares wide enough to enable baby carriages to be wheeled from curb to curb without interfering with traffic, damaging costly power vehicles and placing the lives and limbs of chauffeurs and others in imminent jeopardy? The possible consequences when a baby carriage with a reckless person at the handle and a still more indifferent infant occupant smashes in head-on collision into a rapidly driven limousine or four-ton truck, as it will some day, should put every traffic officer on the alert against the peril. Those out wheeling their babies really should be more careful.

Owners and drivers of motors also might exercise just a little more caution.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY BANDITS.

There are difficulties in operating a street railway system in St. Louis about which the straphanger has not the faintest suspicion. Ordinarily those unhappy conditions are silently borne, but in the stress of a great emergency, such as the continuance or abatement of the 8-cent fare, the policy of silence yields to frank avowal.

A case in point is the operation of the one-man type of car, which is especially adapted to light traffic and, therefore, would be a great economy on the county lines. Such was the suggestion made by a representative of the city in the hearing before the Public Service Commission. But it was promptly explained by the receivership manager that the bandits of St. Louis County made the one-man car impracticable in that service. A crew of two at least must be maintained if a car is to penetrate the fastnesses of St. Louis County and get back with the tokens.

It will be astonishing to most of us to learn about this bandit force that has made trolleying in the county as hazardous as is mining in Mexico. What will be its effect on Sheriff Bopp? That official's efforts to track down the professional gamblers reputed to have infested the county disclosed nothing more venal than a game of penuchle. Is the Francisco Villa of St. Louis County who expects to recoup his fortunes from the one-man car—is he a figment of receivership-manager's imagination, or a ragged but dangerous fact?

Sheriff Bopp, it is surmised, will be inclined to doubt the existence of a bandit gang in St. Louis County that would raid street cars of any type as a regular nightly detail. And his doubt is shared by an overwhelming majority.

CLUTTERED PUBLIC PAYROLLS.

In announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor Judge Mayer of St. Joseph pointed out one of the causes for the mounting cost of government, namely, the pernicious habit of appointing a commission on the slightest provocation. The birth rate of commissions in the last 10 years has risen amazingly. The death rate has been nil. And since a commission, so soon as the commissioners are appointed, must have a full complement of secretaries, clerks and stenographers, the consequence is that our State payrolls are obese.

The people of Missouri are paying salaries to many persons whose services might be dispensed with. How many such persons there are we don't know. Auditor Hackman could probably compile such a list if so inclined. Anyhow, the Auditor of a neighboring State, Oklahoma, developed that mood a couple of years ago. After much investigation and collating he said there were 2214 names on the payroll that could be removed without disturbing the public service. If those persons averaged $3 a day the daily cost was $6642, or something more than $2,000,000 a year. That Missouri's payroll is as badly cluttered up with supernumeraries as Oklahoma's may be assumed.

This is a waste that can't go on. It is a Herculean task, of course, to extinguish a political job once it is created, but this labor of Hercules has got to be performed. Whether the politicians know it or not, the conventional buncombe of complaining about extravagance and promising economy and never retrenching a peg won't do. We are now a tax-ridden people and must have relief. Judge Mayer has indicated a spot where the pruning knife can be applied, though he will have to be more specific and explicit in order to be convincing.

EFFICIENCY AT THE GAS WORKS.

Figures printed by the Post-Dispatch show that Cleveland, Cincinnati, Kansas City, New York and Los Angeles are supplied with gas at cheaper rate than the 85-cent rate the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis now obtains. Chicago pays 3 cents a thousand more, Boston 25 cents more and New Orleans 45 cents more. All applications from utilities for increases in their peace-time charges should have most painstaking examination by the commission. The Laclede company's customers are also suffering severely from high cost of living and most of them have no recourse but to hope for early reductions.

It is possible that there are towns where the Laclede company might study efficiency in gas production and distribution with as much profit as the United Railways could study traction efficiency in Philadelphia.

The Zoo Board has purchased three sealions at a price said to be $100 each. While we are not told the size or price of the animals, the figure seems reasonable in these times of appreciating values. When a sealion on the hoof, or rather flipper, can be bought for a third of the price of a Missouri mule and at about the cost of a Missouri cow, who can charge profiteering?

◆◆◆

THE TEXAN WHO CUSSED UNCLE SAM.

The Texas courts, which have to their credit a number of recent decisions upholding fundamental rights, rule that a defendant cannot be punished under a State law limiting freedom of expression during a war, especially expression in criticism of the Government. The theory of war powers overriding constitutional restrictions, the Judges say, applies only in the Federal jurisdiction. It cannot be invoked to enable a state to override its own Constitution.

War-making is intrusted to the general Government and extraordinary powers arising by reason of that function are logically confined to that Government. States can initiate military operations only in suppressing internal disorder and repelling actual invasion.

The theory of war powers permitting the temporary abrogation of fundamental guarantees has already had an enormous, perhaps a dangerous, extension. A number of states during the late unpleasantness passed legislation on the theory that they could avail themselves of the extension. The new decision makes the distinction plain. The Texan who cussed out the Government could be punished under United States law, but not under Texas law.

The amplified war authority is confined to the jurisdiction which must bear the responsibility for war-making.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"WE are riding to a great fall in this country," Mr. Antwine said. "We are building up a structure of prices that can't endure and the first thing we know the whole thing will come tumbling about our ears.

"While there is time we should take precautions against the sort of fall that was so disastrous to Humpty Dumpty. As far as I know, very little has ever been told us of Humpty Dumpty. He comes down to us only as a symbol, and we have never taken him as seriously as he was probably meant.

"He was probably a profiteer. He found he could get for his goods whatever he asked, and tried to make all his money at once. He went to the bank, which encouraged him to folly by advancing him money with which to extend his business.

"Everybody else was doing the same thing, and one day the people ran out of money with which to pay. Then the collapse came. Humpty Dumpty had an enormous stock of goods for which he had paid a great deal of money, expecting to sell them at an advance of 100 per cent. He was nicely caught, as were all those who backed him. His fall was terrific. There was just enough left of him to make up a little nursery rhyme, in which form he was handed down to us.

"Had there been more of him left the people of that time would no doubt have been at greater pains to hold him up before us as a terrible example. They did what they could. He fell a long distance, and he hit hard. If what happened him doesn't alter our own course pretty soon, we shall have reason to find out exactly what happened by experiencing the very same thing ourselves.

"Humpty Dumpty was the frist profiteer. He has become the symbol of his tribe, as the rhyme associated with his name has become the history of all such careers. That ought to be the favorite poem of business today. It would save it, possibly, a broken neck."

SIN-ICISMS.

Wedding bells are often the death knell for a man's pride.

There are three ways in which a man proposes marriage—on his dignity, on his knees, and on his promises.

The social set is that element which lives in glass houses and throws stones so that the newspapers will hear about it.

Marriage notices contain but three descriptive topics: the bride's trousseau, the bride's academic career, and the bride's parents.

The only consolation a man often gets from the woman who figuratively broke his heart consists of the admonition to "paint it with iodine."

The bored woman is not a creature for whom the world has lost its fascination, but one who has failed to fascinate the world.

Kipling said that a woman's a woman, but that a cigar was often a good smoke. Yet it takes the average man a life time to realize it.

The greatest fallacy is the belief that a married man can be relegated to purgatory for further punishment along with the rest of us.

Altruism is the highest form of selfishness. The more a man loves, with the less he is willing to part.

The industrious man is never revengeful.

PAUL ARTHUR YAWITZ.

Sir: Several player manufacturers were in a controversy over a tracker device. The legal papers in the suit illustrated that the issue was as clear as crystal. A paragraph from one of the legal documents in the case follows:

"The courts have always recognized that the question whether invention is involved in doing these things which after they have been done can be found quite analogous to things which have been done before, and which after they have become familiar seem to have been always obvious by reason of their analogy to those familiar things and operations, is to be ascertained in most instances by references to the actual history of the art, and, particularly by inquiring whether the defect cured or the advantage gained was a known and recognized defect, or a desired advantage during the time prior to the supposed invention or alleged invention which cured the defect or supplied the advantage. And the rule has been often laid down that when a given improvement meets a long-felt and recognized want and overcomes a long-recognized and especially a serious defect or difficulty, by reason of whose seriousness or the urgency of the need there existed at all times a strong motive for producing the improvement which would remedy the defect or supply need, such facts are conclusive of invention involved in the means ultimately produced which does remove the defect or supply the need, notwithstanding that after it is produced it is apparently so simple that it is called the obvious need of doing what is done."

OBEDIENT UNTO DEATH.

HEROES have walked the earth, of every name,
Whose deeds of valor won undying fame,
I sing of One of whom the record saith,
That He became obedient unto death.

Immortal youth, swung high on that vile rood,
Whose fibers consecrated by Thy blood,
Imbued with Thy strong spirit, then became
For all the earth Thine own symbolic flame.

Obedient unto death, the high decree,
That, can I bow to it, and be like Thee,
Shall make my life, so opposite of Thine,
In its last moment, as Thine own divine.

Earth's terrors threaten, yonder yawns the tomb,
A certain day brings near my certain doom,
But Thou, obedient unto death, didst show
The way for me through its dark vale to go.

Not as a whimpering slave, but calmly great,
As one who trusts and triumphs over fate,
Takes Death's pale hand and, willing, marches on Where Thou, obedient Master soul, hast gone.

HEALTH WORK OF SETTLEMENTS.

From the Survey.

"MAKE this a big health year" is the message which the United Neighborhood Houses of New York has sent out to its 45 constituents. In compliance the settlements have set about developing their work in social hygiene, tuberculosis, nutrition and maternity protection. Discovering that in one tenement district 33 per cent of the children were undernourished, the organization is pushing forward the establishment of nutrition clinics in the settlements. A number of these are already in operation. Expert dietitians, trained at Columbia University, are teaching both mothers and children the kinds of food they should eat and the proper methods of cooking them. The interest of children in bringing up their weight has been stimulated through weekly weighing contests. At one settlement milk station short talks on how to take care of infants are given once a week before the day's supply of milk is distributed. In carrying out its maternity work the organization is aiming to get every prospective mother in the neighborhood house districts under medical care. By giving prenatal care and instruction the settlements hope to reduce materially the number of deaths of mothers and babies.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

From the Waterbury American.

EX-MAYOR AVERY of Holyoke, a practical municipal executive and lawyer, with time and a heart for such things as reform and city improvement, who made a fine talk in Waterbury on that subject several years ago, is an advocate of a law allowing sports on Sunday. He referred to Holyoke's experience when, for a time, baseball on Sunday was allowed. This condition of things was interrupted by the action of certain well-meaning Sabbatarians from the eastern part of the State who succeeded in stopping all kinds of Sunday sport, including golf. Now the Legislature is considering a law to alleviate the Puritanic misery. Mr. Avery said that the police of Holyoke and others in a condition to judge testified that the people of the city, who were confined on week days, were improved by these Sundays outdoors and that the moral condition of the State was improved also. Mr. Avery gave a suggestive hint when he referred to the practice of the ancient Egyptians, who didn't have any one day set apart for religion, but who observed religious rites on all days, and went on with their work and play at the same time. Mr. Avery's point was that we do not know yet everything about this matter and that the evolution of Sunday is an interesting process which we may help or retard according to our wise or foolish efforts to make it conform to our own views, narrow or broad as they may be.

SOVIET HUNGARY FOOD BLOCKADE.

BELA KUN Interview in Liberator.

"THE blockade against us did not reap the frightful harvest that it has in Russia. It prevented us from increasing production, it prevented us from exchanging our grain for the industrial products of our neighbors, and above all it made it impossible for us to furnish relief to famished Austria and the starving Czech areas. I cannot say specifically now, to what extent the fate of Soviet Hungary was influenced by Gen. Smuts and Herbert Hoover. Smuts and a certain American 'professor named Brown, who represented Hoover, were the most decent and agreeable Entente representatives with whom we ever had to do. It is true that Hoover brutally strove to perpetuate the blockade against us in the hope of starving us into submission to capitalism. It was, however, not the blockade that undid us but the military intervention of the allies.'

Ruth Takes a Little Flyer in Hubby, Preferred.

Third Installment.

In the morning they took the train for Boston, Ruth excited and certain, Wally dubious and still bewildered. "Now you are to do exactly as I say," she told him again and again. "No matter what happens, you are to do exactly as I say."

"All right," he said dumbly.

At a station 50 miles from Boston a tall, distinguished looking man with white side whiskers got into the chair car and was shown by an extraordinarily obsequious porter to a seat at the opposite end from the Seymours.

"Old John Tate," Wally whispered. "Fifty millions, if he's a cent. Owns timber lands, mills, rail lines. The biggest man in the business."

"Um!" Ruth looked at the old gentleman for [illegible] minutes. "Go and speak to him," she said. "Speak as if you knew him, and as if he ought to know you. Act very sure of yourself, and seem rather surprised if he doesn't recognize you. Go now. And act just like I say."

Wally was frightened to his toes, but he had promised, and he went. He stopped beside the lumberman's chair and spoke, using the tone and manner Ruth had schooled him to use. "Morning, Mr. Tate," he said. "Glad to see you looking so fit."

John Tate looked up, saw a very well dressed young man with a tie that had cost money, and a hat that indicated taste and ability to spend. The young man had a keen face, and his manner was not in the least deferential.

"How do you do," he said, and smiled a bit apologetically. I"—somehow I don't remember your face."

Wally simulated surprise, and then said in a tone which indicated that the simple utterance of his name was equal to any amount of written credentials, "I am Wallace Seymour."

"Of course. To be sure, said Mr. Tate, feeling sure he must know who Wallace Seymour was, and cudgeling his memory for identification.

Wally sat down in the adjoining chair. Let's not talk about lumber," he said. I'm off it for a month. I don't want to know there's such a thing in the world."

"Fed up, eh?" said Mr. Tate curiously. "What's the idea?"

"Just taking a vacation. My wife wanted to run down to Boston for a while, and so I came along. She has an idea she wants to live there. And I suppose I may as well have headquarters in Boston as anywhere. Just as many sick lumber businesses to tinker."

So this young man was an expert, eh? "What's your end of it?" he asked, "woods or mills or sales?"

"When I'm working I take a shot at all three," said Wally with an air of finality.

"Operate yourself?"

"No, indeed. Less worry and more money showing other folks how to operate."

The conversation followed casual channels for a while, but invariably veered back to lumber. It was the thing both men knew best.

"I'm a soft wood man," Tate said suddenly. "Folks have tried to talk me into the hardwood game, but I can't see it. I know pine and spruce."

"Yes," said Wally noncommittally.

"Just cleaned up the spruce on 200,000 acres in Maine. They tell me there's some fine beech, birch and a good sprinkling of maple. Good many years' cut of hardwood, and they've been arguing with me to change over the mills for the stuff, but I don't believe there's any money in it. It's a different game."

"Nonsense," said Wally shortly. He was right and he knew he was right, but his temerity in speaking in such a manner to Mr. Tate almost frightened him to flight.

Tate looked at him sharply. He was not used to being spoken to so brusquely by anyone, and the fact that there was a young man who would do so casually rather impressed him.

"Why nonsense?" he asked.

Wally grinned, though it cost him an effort. "I told you I didn't want to talk lumber for a month. Vacation. Anyhow, my rates for consultation are $25 an hour."

"Um!"

"Got to be getting back to my wife. Glad to have seen you." Wally got up to stroll back the length of the car, but Tate spoke rather commandingly: "How long are you going to be in Boston?"

"Depends on the wife."

"Where are you stopping?"

"Copley Plaza."

"Uh! You've sort of interested me. Drop in to see me tomorrow, will you?"

"Not to talk business. Besides, I'm going to play around. But I'll tell you. Glad to have you drop into the hotel for lunch tomorrow if you like. We can fix up the nation and talk about the weather."

"Suppose we name it the club," said Mr. Tate. "It's more comfortable there, and I'm an old fellow with settled habits."

"All right," Wally said nonchalantly, "but no business, remember."

"Just as you say. One o'clock."

Wally walked back to Ruth in a daze. "He invited me to lunch tomorrow," he whispered in awe.

"Of course," Ruth said calmly. "He saw you belonged in that class right away."

"Now what?" he asked helplessly.

"It's up to him. Just act as you have been doing, and when you say a thing say it with conviction. Be positive, and don't let him offer you a job. If he tries to get you to work just laugh at him."

That evening in their room at the hotel Ruth drilled Wally intensively in his part. She impersonated Tate, and juggled the conversation skillfully from topic to topic. She was sure of Wally because she knew his knowledge of timber was sound and dependable, the product of years of experience. She knew he had the appearance. All that remained was for him to make himself appear desirable and unobtainable to Mr. Tate.

Next noon Wally presented himself at Mr. Tate's club on the tick of 1, neither late nor early. It had taken maneuvering, but Ruth had insisted on the point. Tate glanced at his watch as Wally entered.

"To the dot," he said.

"Always am," said Wally. "Never waste my own time nor the other fellow's."

"Couple of old fogies like me lunch together every noon, Miner and Wiggins. You don't mind."

Miner and Wiggins! With Tate they were the big three, the dominating timber interests in the New England section.

"Not at all. Glad to meet them," said Wally.

The other men had been prepared to meet Wally and received him as one of themselves. It was a new and very enjoyable sensation to him and inspired him with courage. They had taken him at his own value with no questions asked.

"No business, now," Tate warned them; "Seymour's on a vacation and the sound of the word lumber makes his head ache."

Wiggins grinned. "If he's a lumberman he can't sit 15 minutes without talking about it, any more than one of us could," he said.

"You watch," Wally answered gayly.

But Wiggins seemed to be right. Very shortly the conversation was of the woods and the cost of logging, and of airplane spruce and the curing of it, and of transportation costs and probable markets. Wally sensed that he was being pumped, but he was equipped to be pumped. For the most part he kept silent unless a direct question were asked, but when it was asked he replied with a snap and an absence of hesitation that made Tate glance at Wiggins and Miner glance at Tate.

"How about this hardwood thing?" Tate said to him directly. "You almost snapped my head off about it yesterday."

"I'm on a vacation," Wally said.

"Vacations are all right. But no lumberman ever has a vacation. You can't get away from it. Why was I talking nonsense?"

"Because hardwood is a better game than soft. Because theres' more money in it," Wally said shortly.

"Why?"

Wally grinned. "Vacation," he said. "Besides, my consultation rate is $25 an hour."

"To blazes with the vacation;" Tate dug down into his pocket and laid $25 on the table. "Now, talk an hour," he said, and his eyes twinkled.

"Lunch money,' said Wally. "Go ahead, then. You force me into it."

A New Slant on the Old—but New—Servant Problem

A Young Wife Proposes That All Unmarried Women Be Drafted to Help Their Married Sisters.

THE other day a young married girl, 23 years old, who, like many housewives, was trying to solve "the servant problem," confided her troubles to the readers of a newspaper. This girl painted the evils of the situation in vivid colors; unaided she couldn't do justice to her home or husband. She, alone, wasn't equal to running the house for a family of more than three people under the present conditions. She had one child, and was crazy for more—but knew that if there were more the household would be chaos.

There she set forth a problem which faces thousands of young men and women throughout the country today. It is just this that numberless couples, of "war-wedding" origin perhaps, are facing.

What can be done about it?

Until the women of Europe begin once more to invade our coasts in swarms, demanding domestic employment, or until the lure of high wages offered by factories ceases, we shall be faced with the servant problem. And among the many possible and impossible solutions to the problem comes the suggestion of this young woman, demanding for consideration:

Why aren't all the unmarried women in the country enrolled, subject to a selective draft, as home helpers to their married sisters?

An advanced and daring scheme, you say. Yet, stated as it was, it sounded quite rational. Why not make the United States safe for family life by this expedient, drastic though it may be? Is not this cause as important as the cause for which our husbands and brothers were drafted three years ago?

The future of the great American Home.

But, of course, there are two sides to every question. We must take the point of view of the single woman as well as that of the married.

Haven't the unmarried any independent rights? Is housekeeping such a universally congenial occupation that they may all be expected to fall in with the plan that is to make them housewives?

Maybe you, young wife, have an unmarried sister. How would you feel about asking her to drop all her present life to help give your family a more comfortable home? Do you think her presence as housekeeper would be of enough value to justify the sacrifice it would entail? Of course, if she could cook and sew (and who of us cannot?) she would lighten your work tremendously. You would no longer have to give up your morning to marketing, dusting and bed-making, nor your afternoons to heavy mending and fixing for your husband. You would have extra time to give to your children, and to attend to those attractive unnecessary details so conducive to true comfort and high home morale. You and the children would have prettier clothes and more of them, things would be "freshened up" through all the house. You wouldn't be so tired when your husband came home at night.

But you, unmarried sister, what do you think of the scheme? Would you be contented in giving up your present pleasures and prospects in order to make a happier and more smoothly run home for someone? Someone, that is, besides "the right man?" Do you think you'd be glad in the long run that you sacrificed your own life, and perhaps your personality, to solid service of others? Would the realization of the good you were doing be sufficient recompense for the other more pleasant life you were missing?

Or would you rather marry the first man who asked you, just to escape this fate?

Many prominent women writers have lately been giving much thought to the subject. Grace Sartwell Mason has written several illuminating papers and a novel on woman's economic independence and the problems of the home. But perhaps Zona Gale, the novelist, has come closest to this particular problem of who shall do the housework. Miss Gale has made a thorough study of the situation, as it exists in America, and in her new novel, "Miss Lulu Bett," considers it from every angle. Her conclusion is that unless the home is her own the life of a house worker is well-nigh unbearable. Miss Gale pictures, in a very real way, a Middle Western all-American family—father, mother, two daughters, grandmother—with whom the unmarried Miss Lulu Bett "makes her home." From the beginning it is evident that the "family" has the best side of the arrangement, that the sister's lot is in no way enviable.

Of course the ending of the story is the marriage of the ministering sister. It is the only possible nontragic ending.

And so it would be in real life in almost any family where a member of the "unmarried ladies' draft army" was situated. Selfless as she might seem, there could be no real joy for her in constant work and giving, with little return of thanks or appreciation from the family with whom her presence would inevitably become a matter of course. Her only escape would be matrimony, in which state the woes of housekeeping are at least largely offset by other advantages.

Isn't that really the truth of the matter: matrimony was the only way out for "Miss Lulu Bett," and matrimony the only feasible and most nearly satisfactory solution of the housework problem?

HELPFUL HINTS.

When washing vegetables such as lettuce, spinach, dandelions, water cress, etc., add one tablespoonful of salt to the water and all small insects which can't otherwise be washed will quickly rise to the top.

Here is a simple way to clean boots: With a small cloth thoroughly rub a little glycerine into the leather. When this is almost dry rub with a soft brush. The glycerine will also preserve the leather.

HOME ECONOMICS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Kent.

DIVISION OF LABOR IN THE HOME.

UPON analysis the housekeeper knows that provision for three basic necessities must be made if a house is to be lived in and a family cared for—three meals a day, cleanliness, order in house and persons. Her problem is to arrange these three, and get as much help as she properly can from the members of her family.

Most of the cooking a housewife must do herself, if she has no servant, but if there is a daughter old enough she should have certain definite tasks, fitted into her school routine; to set the porridge for breakfast the night before; to help with the baking on Saturday morning; to prepare the vegetables for Sunday dinner; to take entire responsibility for Sunday night supper. With the cleanliness of the house, son and daughter are concerned in ways that train them as they have a right to be trained. Each member of the family should air his own bedroom, open his own bed, leave the bathtub clean after his use of it, brush and hang up his own clothes, clean his own boots, wash his own brushes and comb, and generally care for his own tools and possessions, including his bureau drawers and putting his own soiled clothes into his own laundry bag.

General order in the house requires the division of tasks into two classes—those the boys should do, and those the girls should do. The men of the family naturally look after the fires, cut the wood, carry the coal, shovel the snow, cut the grass, rake the leaves and do any heavy work inside or out. Girls should make the beds, dust, help to wash dishes and polish silver. Both should do errands, which are good training and real help. A cheerful, reliable messenger is by way of being a good citizen already. It is often wise to pay allowances on the basis of this general help in running the house.

Daughters should sew on their own buttons and darn their own stockings as soon as they are able. They can soon learn to do odds and ends of finishing in the sewing room and they love, if given the chance, to help plan and cut out their own clothes. It seems fair to pay them for any share of the family mending they will do regularly.

Children's help may be hindrance for a time, but it is worth while to live through that time to the days when their help is real help, a pride to themselves and the mother, an equipment for right living all their lives.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

An Unpleasant Surprise

Who gives an idle tongue full sway
Will wish he'd held it tight some day.

GOSSIPING is a bad habit. It certainly is a bad habit. It is very apt to get one into difficulties. Peter Rabbit says so, and Peter knows. But somehow Peter can't get over the habit. It's his curiosity. Peter is so full of curiosity that he is forever getting into trouble trying to satisfy it.

When Peter found Johnny Chuck way down on the green meadows on the edge of what later in the spring would be Farmer Brown's cornfield, he had to stop to gossip, and when he found that Johnny Chuck actually was looking for a place for a new home Peter's curiosity became so great that he quite forgot everything else. He forgot to watch out for danger, and that is something that none of the little people of the green forest and the green meadows ever can afford to forget. Peter was full of questions, some of which Johnny Chuck answered and some of which he did not answer. So they sat there and gossiped and both were heedless and careless.

Suddenly they were interrupted by a sound that sent little shivers chasing all over Peter Rabbit. It was a loud sniff. It was so loud that Peter and Johnny knew instantly that whoever had made it was very close at hand. Johnny Chuck flattened himself down on the ground instantly. Peter crouched with his long hind legs ready for a jump the instant he should be discovered. Again came that loud sniff, and again little shivers ran up and down Peter's back. As for Johnny Chuck the hair along his shoulders and backbone began to rise and into his eyes crept a look of anger.

There was a great difference between Peter Rabbit and Johnny Chuck, as they waited to see what would happen. Peter's eyes had the look of fear, but there was no fear in Johnny Chuck's eyes. That sniffing sound drew nearer and nearer, and presently they saw who was making it. It was a strange dog. It wasn't a very big dog, not nearly as big a dog as Bowser the Hound, but it was a big enough dog to make Peter wish he was safe back in the dear old briar patch.

Just an instant after they saw him the dog discovered Peter and Johnny Chuck. Instantly he began to bark. "Run, Peter, run," snarled Johnny Chuck.

Peter's long hind legs straightened out and away he went with great jumps, as if those long hind legs were springs. He dodged around the bushes along the fence as only Peter can. You see, he knew that this was his best chance for escape. He was far too wise to go out on the open meadows. To be sure, he could run faster out there, but so could the dog, and Peter knew that the dog could run fast for a longer time than he could. Peter can go very fast for a short distance, but he can't keep it up. In this he differs from his big cousin, Jumper the Hare. But Peter can dodge around bushes and clumps of grass and posts as no one else can, and this gives him a chance to stop every few minutes for a little rest.

Peter dodged in and out among the bushes along the fence as fast as he could go for a short distance, then stopped to see if that dog was following him. That dog wasn't following him. That dog was barking as if he would bark his head off right back where Peter had started from, and Peter knew that he had got Johnny Chuck cornered. Peter also knew that as long as that dog was interested in Johnny Chuck he himself had nothing to fear. So he sat up behind a tussock of dead, brown grass, and with his long ears standing straight up and his eyes looking as if they would pop right out of his head he listened to the terrible noise that dog was making.

"Oh, dear," thought Peter. "Oh, dear, Johnny Chuck will be killed. His legs are too short for him to run fast enough to get away from that dreadful dog. And there isn't a single hole he can get into. I told him he was crazy to have left his old home up in the old orchard. Oh, dear, he'll be killed; he certainly will be killed. And things will never be quite the same with Johnny Chuck gone."

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake.

NOTHING WORTH WHILE COMES TO HIM WHO WAITS.

MANY people sit down and wait for success. At last reports they were all still waiting.

Don't ever believe the silly maxim, "Everything comes to him who waits." Nothing worth having comes to him who waits.

If you want success, or prosperity, you will have to go out and get them, and you will find it pretty hard going, at that.

Opportunity is abundant, but that also requires a patient search.

If everything came to him who waits, there would be no reason for industry, for self sacrifice, for vigilance, for all the things that we know are necessary to advancement.

Do your work—just that and nothing more—get down to it at the hour specified and quit at the stroke of the clock, and you may be all your life an esteemed and respected craftsman, but that is all you will be.

And esteemed and respected craftsmen are so plentiful in this planet that the market price of their services is not high.

We will say that you and half a dozen men start in the same office. The same opportunities are there for all of you.

But it is the man who realizes that they are there, and goes after them who begins to pull ahead. The rest of you stay where you are and wonder why, in spite of your diligence that you are beaten in the game.

At the Yale-Princeton football game last fall a badly placed forward pass landed among half a dozen Princeton players. Five of them stood looking at it in an interested sort of way. The sixth man picked it up and carried it over Yale's line for the touchdown that won the game.

That young man was looking for opportunity. And he knew what to do with it when he found it. If he employs the same alertness when he gets out of college he will leave most of his classmates a long way behind.

Patience is a necessary virtue. But patience alone will not help you a great deal.

If you find that waiting leaves you stranded in the same spot, go on an opportunity hunt, and, provided you have taken the trouble to qualify yourself, you will be able to make good use of it when you find it.

The Girl Who Was Too Pretty

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

(Copyright, 1920.)

WITHIN the week a husband secured a divorce and the custody of his child as against a wife who admitted that her pretty face was her misfortune.

In a letter written to her grandmother she expresses the hope that her case will aid other girls, saying, "My beauty was fatal, my good looks a detriment to my being a good wife."

The story of this young woman ought to prove an example for many others. One day, after leaving her child with her grandmother "to mind for a few hours," she did not return. Only a telegram followed the next day, stating that no search should be made for her.

It was found that she had willfully run away, according to her own statement, to become the "pampered doll" of a millionaire oil speculator.

By the way, one of the significant features in this case is that the name of the "millionaire oil speculator" is not mentioned in reports of the case.

I think it should be heralded on every post so that she "who runs may read" and understand the possible pitfall that confronts many a girl.

As usual, the man goes scot free and even his name is withheld, while the woman in the case bears the brunt of it all. He goes on and as applied to him it is regarded as an escapade, while she repents for the rest of her life.

But to return to the particular matter. Only two years of being the "pampered doll" was sufficient to cause this pretty young woman to notify her grandmother that she was going to commit suicide and wrote the significant letter mentioned above, warning other girls.

And what a warning it is! The whole thing is easily analyzed. This millionaire doubtless flattered the young woman, told her how her beauty was being wasted, how he could enhance it and give her everything; drew the picture of a brilliant future and love that would never die, the usual tale of the tempter, who seeks to ruin rather than to help.

And the bright dreams, as usual, became dark nightmares. The glittering gewgaws that would crown her beauty became tinsel coronets that weighed her down. The shining things for which she had bartered her beauty, her child and her husband, became as dross and to the point beyond endurance.

It is no new story. There is one every day like this. And many and many a one that is never recorded except in the bitter heart that holds close its secret.

No unholy alliance such as this ever ended except disastrously. You can't break all the bonds of law and order and, in the vernacular, "get away with it."

For a brief spell only the hectic excitement holds the attention and stifles the still, small voice.

But some day, somehow, the reckoning comes—the reckoning with one's self. And the woman finds herself on the sinking sand of illusion.

Bill Bolden Holds Athletics to One Hit in 6 Innings

Recruit's Work Is Best Pitching Performance Yet Seen in Cardinal Series.

RICKEY'S MEN WIN, 13 TO 7

Mackmen Score Five Runs in First Inning Off Slants of Elmer Jacobs.

SAN BENITO, Tex., March 19.—Squabbles continue to feature the series between the Cardinals and Athletics. Before yesterday's game, Umpire Bill Klem of the National League, who is touring the National League camps to instruct the pitchers and players about the changes in the playing rules, gave detailed instructions as to what would be permitted and what would not be permitted during the coming season.

Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals invited Manager Connie Mack and his Philadelphia players to attend the session and Mack accepted. Klem dwelt at length on the moves of pitchers. He described what, under the new rules, constituted a balk.

Then Pitcher Kinney of the Athletics went out and did the exact opposite of what Klem said was the proper thing, and got away with it, because Umpire Fred Hunter, officiating in the series, evidently misunderstood Klem's interpretation of the rules. That caused an uproar from Manager Rickey and the Cardinal players.

The Athletic players put Kinney off to a five-run lead, and the Cardinals were chafing under the fact that they were apparently beaten. The protests were loud and furious during the three innings that Kinney remained on the rubber.

Klem Expects Little Trouble.

Klem said he looked for little trouble from the players over the changes in the rules. He said that they were put down plainly in black and white and that there was nothing for the players to do but to live up to the code; also nothing for the umpires to do but enforce them.

Despite what Klem says, however, it seems that the pastime is in for a long series of rows, due to the fact that different managers and different players look differently upon the meaning of the changes. Manager Connie Mack simply smiled while Kinney was picking two Cardinals off the bases with his alleged illegal move, while Rickey stormed and protested.

Despite the fact that the Athletics hopped on Elmer Jacobs for five hits and as many runs in the opening inning, the Cardinals came from behind and bagged their third successive victory over the Mackmen. The score was 13 to 7.

Bolden Hurls Great Ball.

While Jacobs was thumped for eight hits and seven runs during three rounds he served, big Bill Bolden came on the scene at the start of the fourth and gave the best exhibition of pitching that has been seen to date on either side in the series. He twirled six innings, during which time only one bingle was made off his delivery. It was poked by Strunk, the first man to face Bolden, and thereafter no Mackman hit the ball safely. He passed only one batter, but that did no damage. All in all, Bolden came through with a pitching performance that was highly pleasing. He fanned three members of the White Elephants.

The Cardinals scored four runs off Kinney in the three rounds, but had their inning in the fourth when Raleigh Naylor, a lanky right-hander, served. He was clubbed for three hits and four runs. Naylor retired after one round and Pierson, a left-hander, came on the scene. Four more were added to the Cardinal total in the fifth, which put the St. Louisans five runs to the good.

Today's game will be staged at Donna, another thriving town in the Rio Grande Valley.

Local Youngster Who Is Rival of Hornsby

RAY BLADES.

Ray Blades, St. Louis youngster, who, at the age of 15, was the sensation of the Post-Dispatch Public School League, is trying to land a position on the Cardinals, and finds himself the chief rival of Rogers Hornsby.

Blades, who is 22 years old, was playing with Mt. Vernon in an exhibition game with the Cardinals last fall when he attracted the attention of Manager Rickey.

When in the grammar school ranks Blades made a reputation as a pitcher.

He won his letter at McKinley High School in baseball, football and track, and an injury to his arm in a football game caused him to switch from the pitching slab to the infield.

In winning the grammar school pennant Blades pitched and won eight games, including two no-hit contests.

In addition to his pitching prowess and infielding ability, later developed, Blades is considered a capable hitter.

Revolutions.

THERE was a man named Dr. Kapp,
Who made a resolution
To put his country on the map,
And start a revolution.
And when the Kaiser thought he could
Once more return to power,
He started in to sawing wood
At sixty miles an hour.

The revolution didn't suit,
As Dr. Kapp expected:
And when it failed to revolute
The Kaiser was dejected.
And his erstwhile successor, Fritz,
Whose rosy dreams have vanished,
Threw forty-nine conniption fits
When Dr. Kapp was banished.

TOO TRUE.

Any Power that can make but one revolution in five days and then blow up cannot be regarded as a howling success.

Dr. Kapp had better go to South America and make a study of the revolution on its native heath.

The Atlanta team is called the "Crackers." But it is not on account of any tendency to crack under the strain.

As a matter of fact, the "Crackers" won the pennant last year and Connie Mack bought the entire outfit. Connie was determined to go to bat this year with a pennant winning team.

The Nashvilles are called the "Volunteers." Even the regulars are volunteers on that man's team.

LOUISVILLE BOWLERS ROLL INTO FIFTH PLACE IN DOUBLES AT PEORIA

PEORIA, Ill., March 19.—Leaders were safe throughout yesterday's play in the American Bowling Congress. Slight changes developed among the five high men in the double and all events, but in the five-man and individuals few prize-winning scores were made.

C. Miller and L. Weisman, of Louisville, rolling on a late shift, went into fifth place in the doubles with a count of 1229. H. Morrison of South Bend, went into second place in the all events.

A score of 651 by R. Yaley, Canton, O., was the high mark in the individuals. It sent him into eighth place. E. Liska, Chicago, shot for 644, and went into a tie for tenth place.

Piker First and Second Teams to Battle Tomorrow

Monty Lyon and Scurlock to Do Hurling in First Regulation Tilt of Year.

Washington University baseball followers will have their first opportunity to see the Pikeway nine in action tomorrow afternoon when Coach Ralph Works sends his first and second teams on the field in the first regulation game of the season.

The lineup of the first team tomorrow will present two surprises. It had been believed by many that one player sure of his position was McKim at second base, a Municipal League player and former member of the University of Illinois varsity squad. However, McKim has been temporarily displaced and Tommy Thompson will be found at the middle station tomorrow. Thompson was an outfielder on the McKinley High School nine, but Coach Works is endeavoring to convert him into an infielder.

Metz and Finn were expected to show at shortstop, but they will give way tomorrow to Schewe, a youth who has attracted the coaching eye by his speed and grace.

Magualio, the former Yeatman High star, will not be eligible for the Pikeway outfield this season because of the conference one-year ruling.

The outfield squad is hitting in convincing manner and is made up of three track men, thus assuring an abundance of speed. George Berger, Henry Hurd and Gil Whitley form the regular garden set.

The opposing pitchers tomorrow will be Monty Lyon and Scurlock, who appear to be the choice hurlers of the squad at this time. Marquard has a bad arm and consequently has been unable to show to advantage during the early workouts. He will get in tomorrow's game as first baseman for the second team.

The positions will be assumed as follows, the batting order not having been arranged as yet.

FIRST TEAM.	SECOND TEAM.
Lyon p.	Scurlock p.
Conzelman c.	Burke c.
Shanley 1b.	Marquard 1b.
Thompson 2b.	McKim 2b.
Schewe ss.	Edgar ss.
Zoeller 3b.	Linnemeyer 3b.
Hurd lf.	Russell lf.
Whitley cf.	Magualo cf.
Berger rf.	Metz rf.

GIRLS' HOCKEY SEVENS MEET IN FINAL CONTEST

The hockey season will be closed tonight when the Blue Clubs and Red Sticks, two sevens of young women, meet in their last game. The games between these teams have been closely contested throughout the season and a real skirmish is anticipated in this final contest.

Ward Knocks Out Derby.

SAGINAW, Mich., March 19.—Bobby Ward of St. Paul, Minn., knocked out Frankie Derby of Saginaw, formerly of Brooklyn, in the third round here last night. After being knocked to his knees by Derby in the first round. Joie Leonard of Providence, R. I., and Billy Metz of Detroit, fought six rounds to a draw.

Roman Defeats Dillon.

DALLAS, Tex., March 19.—Jack Dillon was decisively outpointed by Paul Roman of Kansas City in a 10-round no decision bout here last night, according to opinion of sporting writers. Roman scored a knockdown in the sixth round.

Wills Wins From Wheeler.

Wills was the winner over Wheeler, 200 to 118, in 50 innings in the handicap 18.2 balkline tournament at Peterson's last night. Wills had a high run of 17. Wallace and Klein play tonight.

French Champion Who Meets Kabby Has Fine Record

Benny Valger Has Beaten Both American and British Featherweight Leaders.

By John E. Wray.

St. Louis will have its first glimpse of "imported from France" fistic talent, next Thursday night at the Coliseum. Hitherto local promoters have been unable to make the financial side of their bids attractive to the foreigners until the present season, when the fame of plethoric local houses has been seeping Eastward.

The Gallic star who will be exhibited here against the second best St. Louis luminary, Harry Kabakoff, is Benny Valger, a featherweight of international note.

Valger has been in this country several months, following his success in cleaning up the featherweight division in France. Since his arrival he has opposed all U. S. 125-pounders one by one, including Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane and the British holder of the Lonsdale featherweight belt, Joe Fox. Not only has he taken them on, he has also taken them in, trounced them one and all properly, and is now looking about for new worlds to conquer.

He has knocked out a number of good Americans, among them the Baltimore "Knockout King," George Chaney. He recently beat Kilbane handily in New Jersey, but failed to damage him.

Both Men Beat Fox.

His record assures Harry Kabakoff a very interesting evening, although it is extremely unlikely that the Frenchman will extinguish the local luminary.

The men will fight at catch weights, which means that both will be strong and fit at about 130 pounds. Kabakoff in particular will be a different lad than when he met Regan. Both Kabakoff and Valger have administered a thorough boxing lesson to Joey Fox, the British champion, and on newspaper accounts appeared to win from this fighter by about the same margin.

The coming match will afford a fine oportunity for Kabakoff to vindicate himself, after his unexplainable showing against Kid Regan.

Wilde Earns $1000 a Round.

Jimmy Wilde will remain in this country at least two months longer. Manager Davie Hughes told the Post-Dispatch his return to Europe had not even been considered. He is likely to take part in at least three more contests during his stay, and one of these will probably be a return battle with Frankie Mason.

In his four months sojourn in the United States Wilde has the following record:

Foe.	Result	Guarantee.
J. Sharkey	L.	$11,000
J. Asher	W.	5,000
M. Ertle	K. O.	6,000
M. Russell	K. O.	8,500
P. Wallace	W.	4,500
F. Mason	W.	10,750
Total		$45,750

This is an average of over $7500 per fight. If he continues at the same rate for three more contests, Wilde will have received a total of $68,250 for his visit. Thus far Wilde has been reimbursed at the rate of $1000 per round.

Following his return to Europe there is little doubt that he will face Jack Sharkey, and possibly Mason and Pete Herman on British soil, for about $50,000 more.

Jimmy is little, but oh my!

Burns to Box Sharkey.

Jack Sharkey is putting his cheaply-won reputation at stake in rather venturesome fashion. The boy who skied into notoriety on the wings of a newspaper decision over Jimmy Wilde, will fight the little dreadnought Frankie Burns at Jersey City, next Monday. Burns has a knockout wallop and is a veteran of high caliber. Sharkey is a powderpuff dancing master. He may have a potential $20,000 return match with Wilde flattened by one of Burns' 46-centimeter punches.

The "has been" championship ought to be decided when Johnny Howard and Leo Houck fight at a New Jersey bout, next Tuesday. Both men fought here, and their combined strength couldn't equal an ounce of good limburger or a Bermuda onion breath.

Jack Lawler's match with Benny Valger, scheduled for March 23 at Atlanta, has been set back by the Southern club, owing to Valger's desire to meet Kabakoff first.

In the articles, written by himself, the French boxer and war hero will tell, among other things, how he started to box, describe "his worst three minutes," explain the hypnotic influence exerted over him by his manager, Descamps. In the concluding article Descamps will tell of "Carpentier the Man."

The purpose of the meeting was to effect a permanent organization of the new Missouri Valley Tennis District. After the organization is put on a working basis, a charter will be applied for and will probably be granted at the meeting of the national executive committee in New York March 27.

Only clubs having a direct repre? sentation in the National Tennis Association were entitled to vote at today's meeting and this limited the local representation to the St. Louis Amateur Athletic Association (Triple A) and the St. Louis Country Club.

The new district includes the States of Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas.

11-MONTHS-OLD FILLY IS SOLD FOR $13,500

NEW YORK, March 19.—The sale of Hope Frisco, an 11-months-old black filly, for $13,500, was announced here today as the record price for a trotter of her age. She was bought by Thomas W. Murphy, a prominent grand circuit driver, who was said to be acting for R. J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Hope Frisco is a daughter of San Francisco, 2:07¾, the sire of St. Frisco, 2:01¾, Lu Princeton, 2:01, and other noted horses. The trotter traces back in direct female line to Clara, dam of Dexter, 2:17¼, champion trotter of 50 years ago.

CHICAGO, March 19.—J. Meagher, of the University of Chicago, clipped 1 3-5 seconds from the American record for the plunge in a 60-foot tank here last night in the preliminaries of the tenth annual swimming meet of the Western Conference. Browns to Hold Final Workout at Taylor Today

Pitchers Still a Bit Wild, but Burke Believes Men Have Found Batting Eyes.

TAYLOR, Tex., March 19.—Jimmy Burke announced this morning that the final session of training here would be held between 11 and 1 o'clock today. The Browns will depart this evening for San Antonio.

Burke figures that while some of his pitchers still are inclined to display signs of wildness, they will improve when afforded the opportunity of getting into the games on the north-bound trip to St. Louis. Burke is confident that his batters are ready to face the stiffest kind of pitching and pound the ball in most approved fashion. The manager of the Browns also believes that once his men get on to a good playing field it will take but little time to get the necessary amount of fielding work.

Burke has been spending a great deal of time coaching young Bill Bayne. Both Burke and Lefty Leifield, the veteran southpaw, have been teaching Bayne the fine points connected with the art of southpaw pitching. With no definite knowledge of when Carl Weilman will be able to report, Burke has decided that upon Bayne's shoulders will fall the greater portion of the southpawing for the Browns. Leifield can be depended upon to get in and pitch a good game, but he is a veteran and needs plenty of rest after pitching a hard game.

Bayne has plenty of stuff, but is inclined to be wild. He is fast showing improvement and is expected to prove to be a real find.

Burke tonight will take the following players to San Antonio: Austin, Gedeon, Tobin, Sisler, Williams, Jacobson, Severeid, Billings, Collins, Gerber, Robertson, Mullen, Schepner, Shocker, Sothoron, Leverette, Davis, Van Gilder, Bayne, Burwell, Leifield and Shovlin.

Manager Burke yesterday afternoon cut the practice short in order that the players would not be too tired to attend a dance in their honor.

REIDY RETURNS TO PLAY IN SOCCER TITLE FINAL FOR BEN MILLER TEAM

Nick Reidy, the Ben Miller halfback, who departed last week to try for the third baseman's job with the Chattanooga club of the Southern League, is back home. Reidy became homesick after a three-day stay in the southern city.

As a result, Pete Ratican's aggregation will be strengthened for the play-off championship game with the Innisfails Sunday. Reidy will be at his regular position at left halfback. There also is a chance that Jimmy Dunn will be used by Ratican Sunday.

The Ben Miller manager has had his men out for practice every night this week. In order to make sure that all showed up, Ratican announced that a fine would be assessed against anyone who did not put in an appearance.

In order to strengthen his eleven for the fifth round U. S. F. A. cup game, which probably will be played against a Chicago eleven, Ratican has signed Jimmy Johnston, fullback and halfback, and Lawrence Riley, center forward, formerly of the St. Louis Screw Co. Neither has played in a cup game and therefore are eligible for the competition.

MUNICIPAL SOCCERITES TO JOIN NATIONAL BODY

Application has already been made to the Missouri State Association.

POLICE ITEMS

JEWELRY VALUED AT $250 WAS stolen from the home of Charles Buhrman, 1807 North Market street, in the absence of the family last night.

MRS. ANNA LONDE OF 1411 CARR street was lured from her home yesterday by a fake note purporting to be from her son, who is a workhouse prisoner. When she got back she missed $125 from a dresser drawer and jewelry valued at $450.

A BURGLAR RANSACKED THE PArochial residence of Father Herman Nieters, 7626 Michigan avenue, early yesterday, and then broke into St. Boniface's Church, adjoining, and broke open a poor box, taking the contents. The thief obtained about $3 from a desk in the residence, but the priest did not know how much has been taken from the poor box.

JAMES P. FOGARTY, 1325 NORTH Twenty-fourth street, was robbed of a purse, $24 and a key while a passenger on a crowded Jefferson avenue car which he boarded at Market street last night. Bert A. Adams, 4612 Delmar boulevard, was robbed of his watch and medal fob, valued at $125, while a passenger on a westbound Delmar-Olive car.

WINDOW SMASHING THIEVES THREW a half brick through a plate glass in the jewelry store of John Blitzman, 5625 Easton avenue, last night, stealing watches and rings valued at $200. The damage to the window was $100.

GEORGE A. ABEL, JEWELER OF 5168 South Grand avenue, has asked the police to try and recover a package containing jewelry valued at $200 left by his messenger, Raymond Wietel, 15, 4728 Terrace avenue, on a Park avenue car yesterday. The boy had been sent to the Holland Building for the package and forgot it when he alighted from the car at Ohio avenue.

ALLEN C. SEAY, 22 YEARS OLD, 2135 Chestnut street, a negro chauffeur, after having his automobile tank replenished with gasoline at a filling station at 116 North Cardinal avenue at 6 o'clock last night, refused to pay for the service. When the clerk, William Wright, threatened to have him arrested, Seay drew a revolver and drove away. He was arrested later at his home on a charge of flourishing a deadly weapon. The revolver was found in his pocket.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The really noteworthy incident on the day's financial markets was the 8-cent rise in sterling exchange, to a level not reached since December. Not apparently with any view to that movement, the stock market continued the wild fluctuations of yesterday, in the industrial shares. These stocks rose and fell back alternately, with the familiar and purposeless violence, and, as before, under purely professional auspices. There were numerous substantial advances, but the reactions were so rapid as to leave the day's net changes extremely irregular.

"From yesterday's closing rate of $3.75, sterling exchange advanced under active buying today to $3.83. This is well above the previous high price of the year, the $3.81¾ touched Thursday last week. There was no more specific explanation for the rise today than there has been throughout the advance from $3.18 during the past five or six weeks. What it plainly means, however, is the progressive improvement of England's position on the international credit market since London began to send us gold, and the British Government's policy of redeeming its American loans was announced. Incidentally, cables today reported a further reduction in England's "currency notes" during the week. There are now £326,250,000 outstanding, as against £356,000,000 at the end of December and £324,200,000 a year ago this week. The reduction since December of nearly £130,000,000, or 36 per cent, compares with a net increase of £1,000,000 for the same period last year.

"The statement of the country's foreign trade in February, given out at Washington today, showed the month's exports to have been $85,000,000 less than in January and smaller than in any month since last October. Nevertheless, they were $61,000,000 greater than in February of 1919, and ran $33,000,000 beyond the highest monthly total ever reached before the armistice with Germany. The decrease from January must have been partly due to agricultural exports. Wheat and flour shipments, for instance, are known to have decreased nearly 10,000,000 bushels from January. But, on the other hand, exports of cotton increased nearly 50,000 bales, and the $85,000,000 decrease in total exports from the preceding month must, therefore, have been caused mainly by lighter shipments of general merchandise. But the comparison with other months gives little or no indication of the 'slump in export trade' which all the markets were discussing a month ago.

"As stated in the Government's return last months' import of merchandise was about $7,000,000 less than in January, but otherwise was the largest of any month on record, and almost exactly double that of February, 1919. Unfortunately, comparisons with past months in the import figures, and therefore in the excess of exports over imports, is rendered useless because of the muddling of its basis of valuations by the Bureau of Foreign Commerce. Last week the bureau officially confessed that in compiling the monthly statements it had been valuing imports at par, in the foreign currencies, until last September, at current rates of exchange during September, at par again in October, and at current rates thereafter, though with the par basis of calculation still retained on part of the importations until a month ago. This unpardonably stupid procedure makes it out of the question to draw conclusions from comparison with other recent months. All that can be said is that the months in which (as in February) the depreciated European exchange rates were used, would naturally show a fictitious increase in the values expressed in American currency, as compared with months when par of exchange was used."

CORN IS OFF 3 CENTS IN LATE TRADE ON EXCHANGE

Irregularity marked the corn market in the early session here today and prices swung slightly above and then fractionally below yesterday's closing level. NEW YORK COTTON FIRM AT OPENING

NEW YORK, March 19.—The advances in sterling exchange seemed to fully offset lower Liverpool cables, and the cotton market here opened today firm, at an advance of 4 to 22 points. There were two March notices issued, the first so far this month, and March sold at 40.25c at the start, or 4 points net lower, but rallied to 40.33c on the call, which made a new high record for the season. The buying of later months was probably influenced by overnight reports of an unusually good foreign demand in Eastern belt markets for this season, and local trade interests were good buyers of May on the advance to 38.43c for that position, or 42 points net higher.

The market was easier during the middle of the afternoon under increased realizing for over the week-end, with May selling off to 37.82c, or 19 points net lower. New crop positions were relatively steady, with October holding around 32.30c, owing to unfavorable weather reports from the South.

Why Gamble With Health?

When you get into a condition where you frequently feel "all in" or "nervous;" where your finger joints are "rheumatic," or where you have "headaches," "backaches" or "blues" and the like—remember that nine chances to one the seat of the trouble is in the bowel. And, if you don't do something at once,—you are really gambling with Health!

Change those bowel conditions! Do it with Salinos—the scientifically prepared "salts." Salinos is the only salt which simultaneously corrects liver, kidney and both the upper and lower bowel. Salinos works wonders and is taken in cold (or hot) water. Furthermore it is not unpleasant to the taste. Why not at once get a bottle and try

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TOO LATE NOW.

When a man of a hundred and three
Who lived in Jamaica, L. I.,
Announced that he always was free
With the Scotch and the Bourbon and rye,
We promptly decided a bibulous diet
Would render us lusty and sound;
But ere we could get any benefit by it
On reading the paper we found—

That a man of a hundred and five,
Residing in Faribault, Minn.,
Says the reason he still is alive
Is because he subsisted on gin.
We therefore declared that if gin had extended
The years of this Faribault bird,
We'd live on the liquor he blithely commended
But lo! The next morning we heard:—

That a lad of a hundred and nine,
Who dwells out in Adrian, Mich.,
Asserts that by living on wine
You can grow just as old as you wish.
"If wine," we remarked, with a satisfied chortle,
"Can keep a man active and spry,
We'll drink it, and make ourselves almost immortal.
And then came the first of July."

We know we are getting along.
We get in the dumps now and then
Our hunch becomes daily more strong,
That we shan't reach our three score and ten.
And if nothing but booze takes a man past a hundred,
Though he's healthy, and happy and good,
We have come to believe that we grievously blundered,
By not stocking up when he could.

We haven't identified that editor who is booming young John D. for President, but we suspect he is the editor of some Standard Oil house organ.

One Way.

"I let Bilfur have $1 this morning."

"Um."

"Do you think I'll ever get it back?"

"Well, Bilfur is a gullible sort of chap. You might be able to sell him 100 shares of fake mining stock at 10 cents a share."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Why Not?

"What are you working on?"

"You remember those old remedies advertised as good for man or beast?"

"Yes."

"I'm working on an anti-freeze mixture, good for man or motor."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Oof!

"Do you believe that heat produces anger?" asked Smith.

"Did you ever put the lighted end of your cigar in your mouth by mistake?" replied Jones.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Then Mamma Knew.

"Mamma, I lost my gum," cried little Harold.

"Hush, darling," she cut him off, then smiled apologetically at her guests.

"Mamma, I lost"—— this time the mother smiling vacantly over her portion of the chop suey lunch, effectively stopped Harold with a sharp pinch of his leg under the table.

When the guests had gone Harold pouted the explanation: "All I wanted to tell you, mamma, was that I'd lost my gum in your chop suey, but you wouldn't let me finish."—Detroit Saturday Night.

Handicapped.

"Didn't young Grabcoin go away to college last year?"

"Yes. He went to Harvard."

"Fine institution."

"So it is, but young Grabcoin carried along a Japanese valet, a motor car and a bulldog. He may have picked up a few crumbs of knowledge, but I doubt it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.
